Thant Pleads For Peace

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Secretary-General U Thant appealed Monday night for an end of "senseless violence and bloodshed" on Cyprus.

The secretary-general sent cables to President Mararios and to the foreign minister of Greece and Turkey urging them to use all their influence to end the new outbreak of fighting between Greek and Turkish-Cypriots.

NO PROGRESS

His appeal came amid continuing negotiations here on raising a UN force to keep peace on the Mediterranean island.

Thant met with Turkish delegates following reports from Ankara that Turkey had turned down his choice for a political mediator to accompany the force—Guatemalan Jose Rolz-Bennett.

Deputy Premier Kemal Satir was quoted as saying Rolz-Bennett lacked the necessary international stature and knowledge of Cypriot affairs for the post.

GUNS SILENCED

Meanwhile, from Nicosia came word that a tenuous cease-fire had silenced the guns in flaming Kitima last night after Greek-Cypriots in day-long fighting claimed to have brought beleaguered Turkish-Cypriots there to the point of surrender.

Other Cyprus developments:
● Gen. Carl Almgren, Swedish chief of general staff, said in Helsinki Sweden does not have a battalion ready to join the UN peace-keeping force.

● Tass news agency announced in Moscow Andreas Arasouos, acting foreign minister of Cyprus, conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, on "further developing relations between the U.S.S.R. and the Cyprus republic."

First Crucial Primary

A Day of Decision

By AP, UPI

CONCORD, N.H.—One of two of the Republican presidential candidates could be all but eliminated in today's New Hampshire primary, first of the crucial test votes leading up to the summer conventions.

Partisans of the four major candidates yesterday agreed:

● The already-slumping hand-wagon of right-wing Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater could stop if he doesn't come first.

● The write-in campaign for former vice-president Richard Nixon seems to be losing ground.

● New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller may have to drop out of the race if he doesn't finish at least a strong third.

● Only Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to Viet Nam and also a write-in candidate, has been gaining in recent days.

Rockefeller got a break Monday when one of New Hampshire's leading clergymen, Baptist Rev. William Goble of Manchester, said after a 45-minute meeting with Rocky "I am suspending my previous absolute stand against him . . . I may have been too hasty in making moral judgment."

A state-wide lottery referendum is expected to result in a large vote.

In Baltimore, Gov. George Wallace of Alabama announced he will run in the Maryland presidential primary May 19.

Students Charged In 'Regular Orgy'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Thirty-seven college students were charged Monday after what one policeman termed a "regular orgy" in a downtown Indianapolis hotel.

No pleas were entered as a battery of defence lawyers invaded municipal court along with the defendants. Dates set for the next court appearances were staggered through the next few weeks.

DANCE RAIDED

The defendants, 22 males and 15 females, were arrested early Sunday when police raided a fraternity dance at the Claypool Hotel and their rooms because of noisy conduct.

"What they had was a regular orgy," said Robert Giguere, a vice squad patrolman. "We would have had to get a pickup truck to haul all the beer cans away."

CHASED CO-ED

The officer said one student, dressed only in shorts, was arrested as he chased a co-ed down a hallway, and several co-eds were dressed in negligees.

The charges included entering the bedroom of a member of the opposite sex, disorderly conduct, public indecency, underage drinking and larceny. The male students and their REGINA (CP)—Three pints of the world's rarest known blood reached Regina Monday night as doctors battled to save the lives of a 31-year-old mother and her newborn son.

The blood arrived aboard an RCAF T-33 jet that bucked strong head winds in its flight to Regina after picking up the precious cargo from a CF-100 jet that carried it from Boston to Winnipeg.

MINUTES LATER

Minutes later the blood was used in transfusions given Mrs. Adam Kovatch, wife of a Regina carpenter, and her son, who had yet to be named.

Doctors said two pints of the blood were given the woman and one to the child, born by Caesarean section two hours before the arrival of the mercy flight in Regina.

THREE DONORS

It will be a day before doctors will know if the flight and the transfusions have been successful. If more blood is needed, three donors in Los Angeles will be asked to help through the American Red Cross.

The blood, known as VEL, was picked up from the Chelsea Naval Hospital at Boston. Mrs. Kovatch received two pints of blood typed O, RH positive VEL negative.

FACTOR MISSING

A doctor explained the situation was something like that which develops when an RH positive or RH negative factor is missing from the blood.

"The blood begins to produce antibodies which destroy red cells in the blood that contain the VEL factor," he said. The destruction of the cells which carry the body's oxygen supply, would lead to death by anaemia.

QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE

"It is imperative that the child receives the transfusion as quickly as possible."

"It is possible that this is the first reported case of this type in the world. It is usually the mother, not the child, who requires a transfusion of this sort."

EARLY 1950

He added that the VEL factor in blood was discovered in the early 1950s and only one in 2,500 persons has a VEL negative blood.

Doctors discovered Mrs. Kovatch was in this group in 1961 when she gave birth to a child.

Rights Bill

South Wins Round

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern opponents won a first-round skirmish Monday when the Senate moved into the long-awaited battle over the U.S. administration's civil rights bill.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, urging senators to "seek the national good in its noblest terms," moved formal consideration of the bill passed by the House of Representatives.

Senator Lister Hill (Dem. Ala.) led the southern speakers with the claim that the bill would mean federal control of "businesses, education, elections, tax monies, and nearly every other phase of national life."

The southerners successfully employed delaying tactics to prevent introduction of the motion to consider the bill at a time when it would not have been debatable.

McNamara Misses Tragedy

Progress Seen in Viet Nam War Tour

HOA HAO (AP)—In a khaki uniform covered with dust, U.S. Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara toured South Viet Nam's Mekong River delta by helicopter Monday and said he saw progress being made.

But in this village 100 miles west of Saigon, tragedy struck his mission. A U.S. Army helicopter flying security cover in the Communist-infested flatlands lost power and crashed into a field. Two crew members were killed; the pilot and co-pilot survived. McNamara missed seeing the crash by minutes.

The crash marred what seemed an otherwise successful trip for McNamara, who came here for the second time since December on a mission to learn what is going wrong in South Viet Nam's war against the strengthened and aggressive force of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

With the South Vietnamese

premier, Maj. - Gen. Nguyen Khanh, at his side, McNamara spoke in three places to the people living in this troubled countryside. Each time he was cheered and greeted enthusiastically. He promised the United States would see the war through to victory for South Viet Nam and called on the people to give their full support to Khanh and what he is doing.

Later, riding with a reporter in a small three-wheeled vehicle, McNamara said he noted progress in the countryside since he visited in December. He praised Khanh's efforts to bring order out of the chaos in the South Vietnamese government since the overthrow and slaying of President Ngo Dinh Diem Nov. 1-2.

Royal Navy Pawn in Election Battle

Home Uses 'Dirtiest Weapon'

By EDWIN BOTE
Colonial European Correspondent

LONDON—Launched sensationally in Washington, D.C., the non-existent Royal United Nations Navy has sailed into Britain's big election battle as one of the dirtiest weapons in British political history.

Although it does not exist, and was never intended to exist, it is immensely significant —because it shows exactly how Prime Minister Douglas-Home will fight to stay in power.

Behind it is Douglas-Home's anger because Labor party leader Wilson was received in Washington not merely as an opposition leader—but as the probable next prime minister.

By mentioning in America that the Royal Navy might help future UN police actions, Wilson made a political mistake. What Wilson said was almost the same as what Foreign Secretary Butler suggested in Geneva recently.

But Wilson should have known how easily this could be twisted into something extremely harmful to him and his party.

The Royal United Nations Navy was launched by the Washington correspondent of a big American news service. He reported: "Harold Wilson electrified Washington tonight with a proposal that, should a Labor government win the next British election, it would offer to turn the British navy over to the United Nations as the nucleus of a UN peace force."

This story reached Britain's morning newspapers shortly before 3 a.m. British time. Immediately afterward, the Washington correspondent of the biggest British news service got in touch with Wilson. Continued on Page 2

Victoria Budget

$1,000,000 SLASH DUE

By IAN STREET

Aldermen today face an uphill battle to reduce Victoria's civic budget to a manageable size, despite their first slashing session yesterday which saved $575,000 in departmental estimates.

The aldermen have set no formal objective, but Mayor R. B. Wilson noted it would require a reduction of $1,000,000 to bring the budget to within "three to four mills" of last year's tax rate of 55 mills.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Public works bore the brunt of yesterday's cutting by the finance committee and, from this same group of departmental estimates, the list of special expenditures for parks is expected to yield further substantial reductions when it comes up Wednesday.

Today's estimates, consisting of fire department and various civic government votes, aren't expected to produce such heavy reductions.

At the start of yesterday's budget session the committee faced the task of cutting some $1,346,954 from civic departmental estimates to bring the budget to the 1963 total of $10,600,000.

This figure doesn't include certain health and welfare costs or the expected increase in school costs at the local level.

TOO EARLY

City manager Dennis Young said it was "too early to attempt to predict the mill rate" for 1964, but he added "the possibility of an increase in taxes is definitely present this year."

He suggested the individual committees concentrate on

$100,000 Left Behind In Half-Million Haul

NASSAU (CP) — Police said Monday a $100,000 diamond pendant, part of $500,000 in jewelry missing after a holdup Sunday, has been recovered.

It was found behind the rear seat of a taxi which was halted by four hooded bandits who then robbed three U.S. couples of the jewelry on a deserted street in this Bahaman capital.

Columbia Pact Finally Sent To Special Unit

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons finally agreed Monday night, without a recorded vote, to send the Columbia River power and flood control agreement to the House external affairs committee.

The debate on this move had taken five sitting days. The House immediately shifted to the second-ranking item of government priority business—creation of a special Commons committee to study ways of speeding up its own business.

On the Columbia, External Affairs Minister Martin had the last words—nearly an hour of them—as he replied to the New Democrats, main critics of the treaty and subsequent protocol.

"This is the best deal which, after a period of protracted negotiation, we could arrive at with the United States," Mr. Martin said. He repeated that the original treaty negotiated in 1961 by the Conservatives was "basically good" but the protocol signed last January made it better.

Other major Ottawa developments:

● Secured leader Robert Thompson said his group will see the minority government through any non-confidence motions which might mean defeat.

● Justice Minister Favreau said the government may raise the age limit of 14 years for possession of guns and ammunition.

● Defence Minister Hellyer announced closure of four Pine-tree radar stations in eastern Canada at an annual saving of $6,000,000.

Budget Monday

Budget for 1964, expected to cut the federal budget deficit but make no major tax changes, will be unveiled next Monday evening, Finance Minister Gordon said in Ottawa yesterday. His first budget, last year, caused major controversies and calls for his resignation.

"realistically appraising" their departmental estimates in the preliminary stages, leaving policy decisions until the final sessions in which city council sets the mill rate in April.

LONG TERM

The city manager also informed aldermen his proposals for a capital budget covering long term developments will be presented at a special informal council meeting Wednesday.

Several hefty items cut from special expenditure lists in the estimates yesterday are to be given further consideration when the capital budget is discussed. They included:

Your Good Health

Mother-to-Be Should Diet To Curb Huge Weight Gain

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am two months pregnant. I have already gained 15 pounds. Ordinarily I do not have any tendency to gain excess weight.

My doctor says: "Fine. You're eating for two." But I don't agree; it's too much. With seven months to go, can you imagine what I'll look like?

There is nothing physically wrong with me, only a tremendous appetite. I am sure I can control this, but will the baby be harmed if I stay on a low calorie diet?—N.P.G.

A gain of 18 to 20 pounds in pregnancy is regarded as normal; year 15 pounds in two months is, as you think, too much.

EATING TOO MUCH

You are "eating for two," but when you start gaining too much weight, you are eating more than the two of you need—one adult and one very tiny embryo.

I've known of young women to gain huge amounts, 50 pounds or more, in pregnancy. They had to get maternity clothes anyway, of course, but some of them found that their feet swelled and they had to buy new shoes.

So much weight often makes difficulties at the time of delivery; it imperils the baby. It also undermines the mother's health, not to mention the task of trying to shed it afterward.

The unborn baby doesn't need a large amount of food. And when the mother gets fat, the baby isn't getting that extra food anyway. It is just turning into "mama fat."

ESSENTIAL NEEDS

The essential needs of the baby are protein, vitamins, calcium and iron. Lean meat and eggs take care of the first, protein. A quart of milk a day amply provides calcium plus some protein and a supply of fat—if weight is a problem, skim milk can be substituted.

Look after these essentials in your diet and you can keep your weight under control without the least risk to the baby.

NOT REQUIRED

The baby does NOT need any important sustenance from such fattening items as candy and sugar, starches, gravies, and fried foods.

Blanshard-Rose extension calls for provision of a six-lane limited-access arterial route from Tolmie to Pandora costing an estimated $700,000.

MAJOR ARTERY

Development of Rose Street as a major artery was also stressed in estimates for mercury street lighting which were slashed by $73,480 leaving only provision for new lights on Rose Street and Finlayson between Douglas and Rose.

Another casualty was the perennial item for re-decking of Johnson Street bridge at a cost of $65,000. It was cut after city engineer James Garnett said patch jobs would permit use of the bridge for another year.

who completely derided the story.

By 5 a.m. British time, the American news service had also transmitted a full denial by Wilson. The American news service attributed its first report to "a previously reliable source."

Middle Class

Harold Wilson, a skilled and experienced politician, knows he cannot win power without many votes from Britain's very patriotic, anti-foreign middle class, which does not like the UN. And the Royal Navy is at the very core of British patriotism.

To suggest turning over the Royal Navy to the United Nations could lose Wilson the election.

Under the fundamental ethics of journalism, the American news service correspondent, who is an American, cannot give the identity of his "previously reliable" source.

Same Source

Obviously it was neither Wilson nor the Labor party official who accompanied him. "Previously reliable" also means the reporter had used the same Washington source before. British embassy officials were present not only at Wilson's formal talks but also at his "off the record" briefing for British correspondents.

It therefore appears likely the "previously reliable source" may have been a Tory-minded member of the British embassy in Washington.

Flew Back

Several hours after Wilson denied the story, Lord Beaverbrook's independent-conservative London Evening Standard front-paged under enormous headlines a sensational story that Wilson intended to turn over the Royal Navy to the UN.

Wilson flew back to London, and immediately held a news conference, at which he described the story as a lie—and suggested there might be "a sinister explanation."

All British newspapers—including the Conservative newspapers—prominently printed Wilson's denial, which was also broadcast and televised.

Weapon Used

But Prime Minister Douglas-Home thought the whole story a powerful election weapon, and decided to use it.

About 24 hours after Wilson's London news conference, while his denial was in every British newspaper, Douglas-Home said at a Conservative party conference in London:

"Mr. Wilson has put up a curious performance in the last few days. He goes to the United States and makes a great speech that the Labor party will put the navy at the disposal of the United Nations. He calculated that no one will question it. Now someone has questioned it, and he has had to come back and say it meant nothing at all. This is the technique he uses time and time again, and we must be careful about him."

Cheat, Liar

In the Commons that afternoon, Douglas-Home was angrily challenged by Wilson. Laborites howled at Douglas-Home that he was a cheat and a liar, and yelled: "Get out of the gutter!"

Douglas-Home replied: "Of course, if you say you did not say these things in a speech, and I have insinuated that you did, of course I will withdraw—naturally. But we still have to explain those extraordinary headlines."

But when Wilson made known that he would publicly accuse Douglas-Home of deliberate lying unless Douglas-Home could "quote chapter and verse," Douglas-Home decided he did not want this fight to go any further.

He returned to the Conservative Party conference in the evening, and said he withdrew "unreservedly" what he had said in the morning—because Wilson had told him in the Commons he had made no such speech. The withdrawal contained no apology for his attack on Wilson's personal honor.

But Wilson had held his London news conference 24 hours before Douglas-Home's speech—and the American news service had withdrawn its original story even earlier. In his desperate fight for power, Douglas-Home apparently decided his repetition of story about Wilson's intention to give away the navy could be worth many votes.

Wilson said he "gladly" accepted Douglas-Home's withdrawal. Douglas-Home's behavior cannot be attacked without repeating the "Royal United Nations Navy" story—and the Labor Party does not want this story repeated.

Douglas-Home had nothing to lose—and a lot to win. By now, millions of Britons are sure Harold Wilson intended to give their Royal Navy to the U.N.

Polaris Sub Pact to Go If Labor Wins—Wilson

LONDON (AP) — The Labor party would cancel Britain's agreement with the U.S. to build its own Polaris-missile submarines if it wins power in this year's election, Harold Wilson, party leader, said Monday night.

The chief of the Opposition to the Conservative government was asked about the Polaris agreement in a television interview.

"It is correct that you would cancel the Polaris agreement," asked interviewer Robin Day.

"Yes, there is no ambiguity," replied Wilson.

"Britain will cease this presence of being a nuclear power," Wilson said.

Indians Claim Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five Sioux Indians landed on Alcatraz Sunday and pounded in stakes claiming home sites on the rocky island, site of the now empty and abandoned federal prison.

They landed on the 20-acre island with a green tent, provisions for 30 days, and legally-drawn papers for filing with the federal land office.

They were accompanied by Elliott Leighton, San Francisco lawyer for the tribesmen.

Leighton said the Indians were basing their claims under an 1868 treaty granting the Sioux the right to claim federal land "not used for a specific purpose."

Alcatraz was closed as a federal prison on March 21, 1963.

"We are staying here as long as possible, even if it means civil disobedience," declared Allen Cottler, 42, president of the San Francisco area branch of the American Indian Council.

Cottler and his fellow tribesmen departed with their lawyer, however, only three hours after their landing.

James F. Smith, one of the five-man caretaker staff, said the Indian invaders left after being persuaded the federal government had not yet legally abandoned the island.

"It's up to Congress to decide what's going to be done with Alcatraz," said Smith.

Ready to Go, But...

IN VIEW of Mr. Pearson's well-known advocacy of the UN jumping in to put out "brush-fire" conflicts it is perhaps surprising he has not immediately committed Canada to the force Secretary-General U Thant is trying to raise for Cyprus.

It was always part of his international philosophy that this country should be in the vanguard of such action and should lend its troops for such purpose.

That was while he was in opposition, of course, and thus not faced with the responsibility of such a course. The situation takes a different hue when in power.

Not that there are no grounds for hesitation; there are. Few of the countries invited by Mr. U Thant to provide a contingent for a UN police force to intervene in Cyprus have shown willingness to participate. Sweden doesn't have a battalion ready, for one, and Brazil says it can't afford the enterprise.

There is concern all round in fact that the countries answering the call are left to foot the bill, and this affects Canada too.

It is reported from Ottawa nevertheless that the Canadian Army is ready and has been briefed about the climate, geography, history of the Cyprus dispute, and the other details that make troops aware of what they are going into. At least Canada as a nation is able and in a position to move swiftly in response to a UN call. That is to its credit, and reflects on the efficiency of the army and its state of alertness.

The external affairs minister, Mr. Martin, reaffirms that Canada will not shirk its responsibility but it wants more information on the tasks awaiting such a UN force, and the nature of the troops Canada would be expected to provide.

In the general uncertainty surrounding the composition and political nuances of the force, however, the government can be excused for not being too precipitate; it might be left holding too much of the bag if others don't join in and play their part.

There is a moral here that should correct the perspective of those who seemingly think all that needs to be done in combating "brush-fires" is to wave a wand and presto—a UN force is in being. And also as Mr. Pearson has discovered that matters are more easily settled in opposition than when bearing the responsibility.

Difficult Problem

ALDERMAN EDGELOW seems hopeful that extension of municipal powers to control unwelcome noise will be helpful to city council in dealing with the problem of heavy trucks disturbing residential areas at night and causing too much din along the mercantile section of Government Street.

It is hard to see, however, how the two relevant proposed changes in the Municipal Act will significantly alter the present situation.

One of these permits councils to prohibit—as well as to regulate, a power they already have—the making of noises or sounds that disturb the peace and quiet of the neighborhood, or that a council thinks liable to do so or considers objectionable. The other enables the local governments to make different regulations or prohibitions for different areas, instead of having as at present one general set of rules.

For lack of alternative routes, neither of these alterations is apt to be of much help in dealing with heavy truck traffic to and from the Outer Docks area. To prohibit the big carriers from operating downtown or on residential streets in James Bay would be to damage severely an important part of Victoria's economy. A bridge across the harbor connecting the city's industrial zones may be the only satisfactory answer.

The large rigs of course are not the only sources of offensive noise on the streets, but the difficulties of defining some unpleasant sounds and measuring them are a formidable barrier to an effective, enforceable bylaw.

It would be a help, though, if legislation were passed requiring all vehicles from motorcycles to the heaviest of trucks to have mufflers that really muffle under all circumstances. One's ears readily attest that the law in this respect is much too loose.

Poor Taste

IN THE MAIN Victoria's radio stations perform a valuable service to the community in providing a wide variety of entertainment to satisfy a wide variety of tastes. It could, in fact, be said that the local stations have succeeded in maintaining such a high standard of programming that they must be the envy of their colleagues in many parts of Canada.

Because of this it is to be regretted that one of them stepped out of this character in favor of sensationalism by selecting for a listener-participation program yesterday the following question: "If the Queen was assassinated in Quebec do you think it would result in civil war for Canada?"

Not only is the question in the poorest taste possible but could well be considered inflammatory.

Coming at a time when misunderstanding between Quebec and the rest of Canada has reached such a pitch that our national leaders have seen fit to appeal to every Canadian to approach the matter with tolerance and moderation, the question is an irresponsible one, and yet the least.

It is one, in fact, which could very easily arouse even greater ill-feelings between Canadians of different racial origins than already exist.

One thing for certain: it will accomplish nothing good.

Wrong Form

MR. JOSEPH SLOGAN (Springfield): I have a question for the Minister of National Health and Welfare. I would like to compliment her on her new hairdo, and I hope this will give her a new outlook. The question arises out of an article... which bears the headline, "Deputy Ministers of Health in Canada Unanimously Endorse Fluoridation." My question is, in view of the fact that her own deputy minister and other knowledgeable persons in her department have publicly endorsed fluoridation, would the minister now stop vacillating on the subject and say that her department is in favor of fluoridation?

Mr. Speaker: Order. Even though the intent of the question was probably right, the form of the question was wrong.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

I SEE the Welsh folk hereabouts are chagrined that the symbol of Wales, the daffodil, isn't imprinted on the 1964 Canadian silver dollar.

There's the English rose, the Irish shamrock, the Scottish thistle, and the French fleur-de-lis—but no daffodil.

I had thought myself the leek was the prime emblem of Wales, and B.C. or Victoria at least seems bent on co-opting the daff as its own preserve. On St. David's Day it's always a leek the Welsh Guards receive in acknowledgment of their heritage.

But I don't quarrel with my Welsh neighbors if it's a daffodil that should have been etched on the dollar. They are a bit late in putting up a fight, though; the Red Ensign doesn't bear a trace of Wales either and it's been flying for quite a spell.

The spell may be broken a year hence, who knows. But that will still leave the daffodil off the national coat-of-arms. I didn't know, due to my ignorance I suppose, that Wales is exactly the "mother nation, the very foundation, of Britain." A lot of queer blood went to the making of this ancient Canadian heritage. But they were among the native Britons, so...

But even without the dollar my Welsh friends can hold up their heads. The only limitation on the sovereign scale of Wales is being captioned for so long as "principality." And this isn't fair. Didn't the legendary King Arthur and his magician Merlin belong to Wales, and if he was a king, and no one ever disputes his title, wouldn't the principality, so-called, be a kingdom?

Never mind, though. When it comes to singing the eminence of the Welsh folk is supreme. Nothing anywhere can beat the music that comes up from the Welsh soul to spill in lovely symphony from voices that warm the heart and touch chords of beauty. Here they are of undoubted royal descent.

There are other distinctions that mark their special ilk.

They have the only British saint born in the land over which his spirit hovers. The others are imports. They have the railway station with the longest name—I won't spell it out and so trouble the printers—although a man by name of Beeching threatens to make it useless. And at the moment they have a soccer team in the semifinals of the English Cup.

And of course if Swansea wins the trophy that will show who and what is really king over across the Atlantic. A silver dollar that day at Wembley without a daffodil won't matter a leek.

I have a note in my files, too, that it was a Welshman who discovered America three centuries before Columbus. And he was a prince into the bargain, from the family of a famous chieftain who flourished in North Wales circa 1100-70.

And wasn't the great English queen, Elizabeth, a Tudor? And, forby, who could watch a film like "How Green Was My Valley," even if its greenness wasn't evident except in the staunch character of the miners, without a pang for an ancient and worthy race.

I had a neat-door neighbor in Victoria some years ago. She is within our ken no more, but she was a lovely person. We called her "Boppa," a term I believe that in Welsh means auntie, and the word "auntie" summons a picture of fond, affectionate womanhood.

How could I fail then to respond to Welsh regret that their treasured daffodil isn't on the silver dollar.

Never mind, I say to them, hoping at the same time lots of these Canadian metal symbols fall richly into their pockets.

French Action Justified

By OTTO VON HAMBURG

THE fact that French forces in Central Africa saved the government of President Leon Mba in Gabon has been violently criticized. Communists, neutralists and African extremists stridently denounced imperialism and colonialist intervention in the affairs of a new state. As usual numerous representatives of the European Left followed suit.

Despite this outcry the gesture of Paris is legitimate, especially if it marks the beginning of a realistic policy in African affairs.

For three years a new principle of international law, first proclaimed in the UN General Assembly during the Katanga crisis, has been applied to the Dark Continent. The words "non-intervention" and "self-determination" are re-interpreted in a sense conceived in Moscow and Peking. According to this dialectic, Marxist governments have the right to take an active part in the domestic developments of another country, without being guilty of intervention; similarly, political decisions, whether by ballot or bullet will only be recognized as self-determination, if they favor left-wing totalitarianism. The Free World, without a clear-cut policy and a slave of its own empty slogans, accepts this incredible perversion of truth, which is bound to throw out of gear all national and international institutions.

As a practical consequence Russia, China, Algeria, Ghana and the U.A.R. publicly and brazenly interfere in the affairs of African states. The democratic countries on the other hand abandon one by one the civilized leaders. This everywhere strengthens the revolutionaries since, despite their lack of popular support, they can count on foreign arms and funds. Hence the chaos spreading like wildfire.

This alarming reality is illustrated by the disorders in the Congo, the violent death of President Olympio, the horrors of Rwanda, the revolutions in Brazzaville, Dahomey, Zanzibar, the attempted coups in Senegal, the Ivory Coast and East Africa. The events of Gabon are only one more incident in the long series. It is obvious that a continuation of the present trend would lead in the near future to a completely barbaric and totalitarian Africa.

France's action in the name of the Community, at the invitation of the only legal and legitimate government of Libreville, is hence more than justified. It is a counter-offensive against the rapid advance of the dictators. Paris has chosen the only way which might save the remnants of civilization and democracy in Africa. It is to be hoped that this is just a first step towards that solidarity of free men, which will be only effective if it transcends the barriers of color and the often artificial borders of continents.

"HEY!"

Never a Mystery

Quebec's Stand on Pensions

By JOHN WALSH from Montreal

IF OTTAWA is surprised at Quebec's refusal to participate in a national pension plan, it has no reason to be.

As far back as May, 1962, the government in Ottawa was informed in no uncertain terms that Quebec intended to introduce its own plan and had no intention of being a party to a national scheme.

The Pearson government is hoping to make a final bid to have Quebec join in the Canada Pension Plan at the federal-provincial conference in Quebec City at month's end.

One government spokesman has said there is still "an outside chance" that Premier Jean Lesage may agree to shelve his plan in favor of the national program. But he admitted Ottawa wasn't very optimistic.

"We are proceeding on the assumption that Quebec will remain outside the plan," he said.

There are many reasons for Premier Lesage's stand, but the most important is that Quebec wants to make the pension money work to bolster the economic situation here.

When Ottawa called a federal-provincial conference to discuss the pension plan in September of last year, Quebec attended as "observers." That was not surprising in view of Premier Lesage's previous statements that he saw a "great danger" in the national plan.

Last August Lesage said in the Quebec legislature, "I am criticizing objectively. I am expressing my fear. I am seriously questioning it."

And, he added, the Ottawa plan as presented by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh, is "similar to one rejected by a joint Senate-Commons committee in 1960."

Premier Lesage was then a member of the federal cabinet. The Quebec objection to the plan proposed by the federal government has been based on the premise that Ottawa's concern was towards "widows and orphans" while Quebec is interested in its transient labor.

Premier Lesage, in repeated statements regarding the pension program said he felt Canadian economy would be injured. He also threatened to "go to the courts, if necessary," to prevent the federal government from levying its pension assessment.

Under the British North American Act, Quebec has the right to introduce its own pension act. Quebec served notice that it intended to introduce legislation in the Quebec House concerning a provincial pension plan. The legislation has a legal blockade which closed the door on the Ottawa plan.

In this particular issue the Quebec premier can count on the support of the opposition Union National party. The Union National included a pension plan in its party program during the last elections, and Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson has been pressing the premier to implement scheme for the last year.

By Johnson's estimates the plan would bring in a rotating fund of some $500,000,000 a year which could be well employed in alleviating the pressing financial situation in the province.

Critics of the Lesage plan maintain it is more economic than social and that the financial problems of Quebec are motivating the government into setting up its private plan rather than joining with Ottawa on a national level.

Whatever else can be said about Premier Lesage in this issue he cannot be accused of being inconsistent. As long ago as February, 1962, he formally backed a local pension plan.

On May 22, 1962, he told the Quebec House of the government's intention of introducing a pension plan.

The Quebec plan has not yet appeared before the House but legally it has staved off an official Ottawa attempt to push its plan into effect.

Ottawa has the right, under an amendment of the British North American Act, to legislate in the pension plan. It is effective, however, only if a provincial scheme is not in effect or if a planned program is contemplated.

By putting its notice of motion on the books Quebec managed to beat Ottawa to the punch.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh has conceded that Quebec has the legal authority of putting its own plan in effect.

She doesn't like it and said, shortly after the Ottawa conference last September, that she wouldn't be surprised if there was a "vast exodus" from Quebec to other parts of Canada so that they could participate in the national plan.

Insurance companies here in Quebec see the Lesage pension plan as opposed to private enterprise but the premier has assured them it will not interfere with their business.

Revenue Minister Eric Klerans said the "major factor" is that Quebec wants to invest its money rather than have it go out of the province. The Quebec plan is a twofold one and aimed primarily at boosting its sagging financial situation. The income from provincial plan would serve as a reservoir for economic development and provide social security.

The Missing 'Mr. Kent'

Our Readers' Views

To be considered for publication in this column, letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and if signed with a pseudonym, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

only address he has given, appears to have in its register no record of his name.

GORDON SLATER, Region Information Officer, British Information Services.

Beyond Patience

I thought that I'd heard all the lamentable tales of journeying Englishmen, but on reading a recent effort of Mr. Kent's I admit I'm mistaken. It would appear that his company erred too in letting a man with his views represent their probably fine name.

His ill-timed reference to British tradition and superiority leaves one smiling with the conclusion that he isn't a Beale fan, law-breaking guardsman or ex-cabinet minister.

I'm afraid I haven't any patience with a man of his calibre and in consolation feel assured that if his ability in sales matches his diplomacy, his return will be indefinitely postponed.

A LONDONER.

Unforgivable

On behalf of the many English people living in this beautiful province and in particular this charming city of Victoria may I be the one to say "We are extremely sorry for the unforgivable rudeness of Mr. Dan Kent" expressed in his letter. I notice he had the good sense, at least, to write from a safe distance—Toronto.

When I consider all the many kindnesses and considerations shown to myself and family by Canadians I shudder at the narrow mindedness and ignorance exhibited by the correspondent. It is a pity his breeding was not of such good material as his woolsens.

In passing I must add that I have NO complaints about the many cups of tea I have been served since 1957 when I arrived in Canada—most of them brewed out of consideration for the English preference for tea.

MRS. JOHN BAINBRIDGE, 173 Joseph St.

Smells a Rat

Is the letter that you received from Dan Kent complaining of his reception in Victoria, and unfavorably about Canadians generally, a hoax?

His style of writing implies that he is an educated gentleman, but the content of his letter refutes that idea.

As a salesman, he sounds a failure. Why should he wish to publicize the fact?

The "English flavor" is rather too obvious, with his "fortnight," and his tea-making.

Finally, an Englishman of the type he is imitating would never sign himself "Dan."

I smell a mud-stirring rat.

ANNE MARTIN, 1544 Clive Drive.

Mature Advice

Perhaps if those members of our legislature who guffawed at Mr. Nimsick's brave comment on the relationship of sex and marriage had realized that disproportionate laughter is evidence more of insecurity and inability than of competence, the uproar might not have needed five efforts from the gavel before peace was restored.

Three cheers for Mr. Nimsick and his mature, worth-while suggestion of training, as wisely as we may, for a whole and satisfying marriage.

FOR WISDOM.

Firmly Neutral

Burmese Socialism

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH from Rangoon

THE immigration officer at Rangoon airport carefully recorded not only the date of my arrival but also the time. "You must be back at this desk, ready to leave the country, within 24 hours," he warned.

"But it is only 11:30 in the morning now and my plane to Singapore does not leave until tomorrow afternoon," I protested. "Then you will just have to come and wait here for a few hours," he replied, grimly—and then wrote the wrong date of departure under his entry stamp in my passport, inadvertently extending my visa by a further nine days.

The non-committal inflexibility, the fluster leading to the silly mistake, and the fact that the Burmese government will not give a foreign journalist more than one day in the country, all these belong to the popular image of Burma today: presenting life under an authoritarian, left-wing military junta that deeply distrusts and agitates its own, colonial-trained civil service and is driving the country ruthlessly towards socialism and probably Communism.

But the peculiar flavor of revolutionary Rangoon cannot be expressed in a few clichés. It is 82°F in the shade, and the dust, the huge swarming crowd, the dazzling golden pagoda, and the fast, lethargic files are as they have always been. It is a tired city, the people apathetic rather than unfriendly.

The first cinema observed is showing the usual Russian film about a circus, but the next two are advertising Room at the Top, and something called Petticoat Pirates. Outside the Strand Hotel a figure inquires softly "Change money, boss?" The minor capitalist and speculator are still with us. It seems, and the black market rate of the Burmese kyat is now three times the official rate.

The hotel is tiled, cool, and almost empty, although it is lunchtime. In the lounge "Jimmy Smith's Orchestra" performs, solemnly amid potted ferns, while the barman tries to tempt a solitary customer with rum and whisky bottled in Mandalay. In the dining room Indian waiters in white uniforms with green epaulettes move softly among the tables, and in a secluded corner two baldheaded men in shorts exchange inaudible confidences. British businessmen, or Czech tractor technicians? It is hard to say.

The difficulty of identification is typical of Burma, for it is not a Soviet satellite or a tributary of China but a country whose leader, Gen. Ne Win, is striving for neutrality so neutral that he recalls from the idea of even a neutralist bloc, and for a new form of Marxism so Burmese that it will make Tithius look as orthodox as a black bowler hat.

The premier-skeeter nationalization program, the sudden proliferation of state corporations, the dispossession of the capitalist and the middle-man, and the accent on austerity often have alarming consequences for the foreigner, even in everyday life in Rangoon. A businessman who imports an expensive car from Britain is told that Burma no longer grants any tax-free trip-tickets and that he must pay 200 per cent duty on the purchase price or ship it back to London. When a foreign trader leaves the country for good, as most of these from the West are now planning to do, he may only take $100 with him. If a resident wants a short holiday outside Burma, he may wait four months or more for his exit and re-entry permits—and he will not even be able to buy himself a drink on the plane he catches, for he is not allowed to bring out one penny with him.

There is little opportunity to try to influence officials, for Burmese government servants avoid social functions and only accept invitations from foreign diplomats or business groups if given specific permission.

But socialization must not be mistaken for satelization. Foreigners from the East are hardly more welcome than those from the West. There are perhaps 40 Russian technicians and a sprinkling of East Europeans in Burma, but there are also socialist consultants from Denmark and Israel, yet no permanent Chinese.

About half of the 2,500 political prisoners arrested in recent roundups were known or suspected left-wing extremists, and "white flag" Burmese Communists who came from Peking to negotiate with Ne Win were forced to return to China hastily or to join their guerrilla comrades in the Burmese jungle when the general broke off the talks.

It would be wrong to minimize the paramount influence of Peking—but Ne Win still authorizes the publication in Rangoon of a Chinese newspaper loyal to Nationalist Formosa. Whatever injured parties in Wall Street or the city of London may feel, Ne Win is not a Communist, but may well prove Burma's best defence against Communism.

(OF THE COURTESY)

Dental Mechanics, Dentists Locked In 'War to Death'

Health Minister Eric Martin told the legislature yesterday "a war to the death" is taking place between B.C.'s dentists and dental mechanics.

The situation is "one of the most disgraceful things I have ever witnessed in my life."

The government bent over backwards earlier this year to settle a dispute between the two groups by bringing in new regulations which wiped out a disciplinary clause under which the B.C. College of Dental Surgeons was able to discipline its members for dealing with dental mechanics.

"What did we get in return? Nothing but kicks in the teeth," Mr. Martin told the House.

The B.C. Supreme Court subsequently ruled the government's action unconstitutional. The dental issue arose during the second day of debate on the minister's salary vote.

which still has not been approved by the House.

Mr. Martin blamed both sides for not sitting down and ironing out their problems. "All the legislation is there, all we need is common sense and a little adulthood."

Each group is refusing to cooperate with the other, and if some solution is not found to the problem "I will bring in some very stringent regulations," he warned.

Saanich M.L.A. John Tisdalle launched the debate on the dental issue, by telling the House that dental mechanics are being "driven underground" and forced to bootleg their skills on the black market.

Dental mechanics have a right to deal directly with the public, he said.

Arthur Turner (NDP Vancouver East) told the legislature "the answer is not to pass orders-in-council to restrict dental technicians."

'It's My Mouth'

Donald Robinson (S.C.-Lillooet) called for a government investigation of the dentist-dental technician fight, and said: "If I want to go to a dentist to get my teeth out and go to a dental technician for teeth — it's my mouth and I should be able to do what I see fit."

When a dental technician gets "only $20 for uppers and lowers" and a dentist charges $200 to $300 for the same set of teeth, something is wrong somewhere," he said.

Esquimalt M.L.A. Herbert Bruch said "I am as critical of the lack of co-operation by the dentists as I am critical of the lack of co-operation by dental technicians . . . these petty bickerings have to come to an end."

Bert Price, (S.C. Vancouver Burrard), called for legislation permitting dentists and dental mechanics to work together "without prejudice" to the dentist.

Mr. Price said that three dentists in B.C. have had their licences to practice suspended by the dental society, for dealing with the dental mechanics, who are non-professional denture makers.

The government backbencher said that although dental mechanics have been permitted to make dentures for anyone after gums have healed, the dental society has, in effect, frustrated the law.

Opposition leader Strachan said he had heard reports of the suspension but on investigation found the dentists had dealt with unlicensed mechanics or had allowed the mechanics to make dentures for unhealed gums.

Access Fine, But . . .

Forestry Firms Fight Road Act

B.C. forest industries are still implacably opposed to any legislation which would give the public the right to public access over private roads.

A clutch of briefs placed before the legislative committee on public access yesterday showed the industry is willing to expand its voluntary role as host to the general public but wants to retain control over the guest list.

BILL UNDER STUDY
A draft bill which would establish certain public rights to access is under consideration by the committee.

The bill was prepared last year but wasn't placed before the legislature.

Some observers predict that in the face of growing co-operation from industry in the access field it is likely to be pigeonholed again.

INDUSTRY CLAIMS
In yesterday's briefs the industry claimed:

- More than 4,000 miles of private industrial roads have been voluntarily opened to the public.

- More than 100,000 members of the public used such roads last year.

- Existing restrictions on access are in the public interest—either to preserve forest resources or protect human life.

PLAN WORKS WELL

A Council of Forest Industries brief said the voluntary access plan is now working well.

"Why put a straitjacket on it by imposing an access act?" the brief asks.

Individual access routes pose individual problems, the brief states, and cannot be properly administered through uniform regulations.

Opposition Panel Set

Who Can Provide the Best Alternative Government for British Columbia will be discussed by provincial opposition party leaders in the Lansdowne auditorium, University of Victoria, at 12:30 p.m. today.

The panel will be sponsored jointly by the university's NDP, Liberal and Conservative clubs.

Participants will be Robert Strachan, Ray Perrault and E. Davis Fulton. Moderator is Dr. G. Reid Elliott, head of the university's department of economics and political science.

Panelists will speak for 15 minutes. A question period will follow.

The council said 55,000 hunters—more than twice the number which passed through the Cache Creek game-checking station—passed industrial access points on Vancouver Island alone last year.

SERIOUS SITUATION
"The handling of this flood of hunters in the short period of the hunting season is reaching the point where it is a serious administrative problem," the council adds.

Cost of public use of the Gold River Road is estimated at $25,000 and is being absorbed by industry, says the brief.

1,857 MILES OPEN
In a separate brief, MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. said it has opened up 2,487 miles of private road to public access.

"We have a liberal access policy. It will become more liberal as the public becomes more educated," the company stated.

Martin 'Hopes'

Mental Clinic 'In 1964'

Health Minister Martin said Monday he "sincerely hopes" construction of a new mental health clinic in Victoria will be started this year.

He was replying in the legislature to Alan Macfarlane (L. Oak Bay), who said the minister had announced plans for the mental health clinic in each of the last four years.

The Liberal member also asked what facilities are to be provided and when construction is to start on a retarded children's school proposed for land adjoining Colquitz prison in suburban Saanich.

Mr. Martin said the mental health clinic will be similar to the Crease Clinic and will provide intensive treatment services and services for outpatients, the emotionally disturbed, geriatrics "and any other type you care to mention."

"When will construction begin?" pressed Mr. Macfarlane. "I am not able to let you know immediately," replied the minister.

"In 1964?"
"I sincerely hope so."

Legislature Picketed

Three members of Canadian Ironworkers' Union took up picket stations outside the legislature yesterday demanding investigation of B.C. Labor Relations Board. Union secretary Tom McGrath (right) said the board won't give CIU fair hearing on certification applications affecting two Vancouver firms. Others in picture are George Erickson, left, and Robert Adams, all of Vancouver. —(Ryan Bros.)

Trustees Here Tomorrow

School trustees from all parts of the province will pay their annual visits to University of Victoria and UBC, Wednesday, to meet students training to become teachers.

The visits are aimed at giving students an insight into the operation of boards and to "recruit" them for positions in September.

W. J. Peck, of Cowichan Bay, first vice-president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association, will speak at Victoria, and J. A. Gray, of Trail, president, will speak at UBC.

Prof. L. F. Martens is in charge of arrangements at Victoria.

Columbia Authority Urged

E. Davis Fulton, B.C. Progressive Conservative leader, has called for early creation of a Columbia River authority to supervise non-power aspects of the river's development.

Mr. Fulton said Monday such an authority is necessary if B.C. is to derive maximum benefit from all aspects of the project.

He suggested the body, which would be similar to the Tennessee Valley and St. Lawrence Seaway authorities, might supervise compensation, relocation of highways, tourist facilities, school construction and problems in municipal affairs and agriculture.

The authority "would have executive powers within the framework of provincial legislation."

He doubted the government has any overall Columbia development plan. If so, it was a case of "lack of foresight."

"But perhaps it's just that Mr. Bennett doesn't want to let the power get out of his hands."

Mr. Fulton was speaking to reporters after watching debate in the legislature from a seat in the public galleries. The party leader was personally defeated in the 1963 provincial election, along with all the other Conservative candidates.

He said that he, "along with all other B.C. residents," welcomed the idea of a new federal bank with headquarters in the province. "But it would be a great mistake for the government to participate directly or indirectly in its administration."

Asked what he thought about debate in B.C.'s House the veteran Ottawa parliamentarian said he would reserve his comments until he is able to make them from the floor of the House.

Asked whether a bill providing for the government to invest in share capital of the new Bank of B.C. might be ultra-vires of the province's powers, Mr. Fulton said he presumed the federal justice department will study the possibility.

"But I know of no law which prevents a province from buying shares in a bank."

Mr. Fulton said he fears decentralization of mental hospital facilities, provided for under B.C.'s proposed new mental health act, might only be another example of Social Credit "trying to get rid of a hot potato."

He said the government has a prime responsibility in mental health and "should admit it."

Rambler doesn't have what it takes to make a rattle

EXCLUSIVE ALL-WELDED SINGLE UNIT CONSTRUCTION ELIMINATES BODY BOLTS THAT LOOSEN UP WITH TIME

In the old method of car construction the body is bolted to a frame. In time, body-bolts work loose, causing the squeaks and rattles that are the bane of every motorist.

Twenty-three years ago, we pioneered a new method of building cars. We welded the entire car into one solid unit. Without body-bolts, squeaks and rattles were virtually eliminated. Called Single-Unit construction, it offered a stronger, longer-wearing car. The rest of the automotive industry is just beginning to adopt this superior method. But even when they do, Rambler will still be ahead.

Two years ago we introduced Uniside, an improvement on Single-Unit construction. Now the entire sides of a Rambler are stamped out of single sheets of steel. By reducing the number of welds and cutting down the possibility of error, it provides a more perfect door fit and an even more rugged car body.

Exceptional and exclusive features like this provide Rambler with everything it takes to make Canada's best car value. Visit your Rambler dealer soon and see what we mean.

$50,000 Recovered

Shot, Nabbed

MARYKNOLL, N.Y. (UPI)—A large force of state-out police-men wounded and captured three men who robbed the post office of a Roman Catholic mission order of $50,000 Monday. A fourth robber escaped. One police officer was wounded. Federal, state and local authorities have been watching for the holdup gang since before Christmas, but refused to say where they got the tip.

The gang, from nearby New York City tried to flee in a car, but it plunged down a bank in a shower of bullets and crashed against a tree.

ARMS FOUND

Officers recovered the loot and five pistols.

The three captured were identified as Robert Steven Mosher, 27, Richard Bracken, 22, and Eddie Reid, 31.

Bracken and Reid were in satisfactory condition in hospital. Mosher was treated for a minor wound.

New York City detective Lieut. John Jennings suffered a minor wound in the hand.

The trap had been laid so well that "Sister Frances," the nun working in the post office, was a policeman and a priest the bandits tried to kidnap as a hostage was a deputy sheriff in disguise.

Oldtime Range Sought

An old-fashioned gas range, of the mottled-blue type with a warming shelf above it, being sought by Tony Nicholson for his Dominion Drama Festival play to be seen in Vancouver, Thursday.

Production is by the Intimate Stage of Victoria.

The prop is essential to the play. The Caretaker, a comedy of terror with a three-man cast, Michael Stephen, Bill McCall and Rick Darrell.

The Caretaker is one of five plays to be presented in the B.C. regional finals starting Tuesday.

Winner will represent B.C. in the Dominion competition.

Artillerymen To Meet Here May 30

The 48th reunion of the 15th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery, will be held Saturday, May 30, in the Ingraham Hotel.

Archie Wills, president of the brigade, said about 50 of the original 300 will come from California, Washington, Vancouver, the interior and up-island points.

The artillerymen left Victoria May 28, 1916, and engaged in some of the historic battles of the First World War. Less than half returned.

Time is catching up with the gunners who were surprised, when at their last reunion they were ready to head for home at 10 p.m. At early reunions they weren't ready to leave before 3 a.m.

On the reunion committee are Gordon Cameron, Ralph Cruickshank, Alfred Dowell, William Hudson, Joyce Collins, Percy Gilson and Archie Wills.

Dawn Fraser to Swim Again

SYDNEY (AP) — Examination showed Monday that Australian swimmer Dawn Fraser suffered chipped vertebrae in her neck in the auto accident which killed her mother, but doctors say she should be able to keep on swimming.

George District Hospital, Dr. Don Storey, said x-rays showed the neck damage.

Dawn's neck will be immobilized in an orthopaedic collar for several weeks to assist the chip to return to the vertebra, the doctor added.

"The chip may not go back but that does not really matter."

The injury is not serious although Dawn will not be able to swim for a while, he said. Dawn's mother died in the accident.

Speaking Briefly

Patterson-Clay Fight for $750,000?

Biggest guarantee in the history of boxing—a minimum of $750,000—has been offered Cassius Clay to defend his heavyweight title against Floyd Patterson, but so far the Clay camp has expressed little interest.

Offer was made by promoter Al Bolan after Patterson offered to fight for no purse just for the opportunity of "wrestling the title away from Cassius X and the Black Muslims."

Clay's manager, Bill Faversham, said that "at this time, we would not consider Bolan's offer." In jumped Clay to add: "We still might, you know!"

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

THE ANSWER: Suggestions for reviving the popularity of the Totem Bonselpiel, official bonselpiel of the Pacific Coast Curling Association, have included a mid-week start, return to the early-season dates and, perhaps, a return to the old draw which had two open events with three supporting events on each side.

The added, and annual, thought that a "back-door" entry enabling a certain number of rinks to qualify for Consola playdowns from the Totem bonselpiel, was frowned on by enough to practically have no chance of being seriously considered.

Biggest argument by those opposed was that it wasn't fair to give the chance for zone champions to be eliminated in the PCCA final by rinks they had beaten at the club or zone level.

It really is a good argument in many ways but there is another, if somewhat similar way, to help popularize the Totem bonselpiel. Why not permit a "front-door" entry to the PCCA finals?

This is entirely feasible if the Totem, as is likely, is to be moved back to a late November or an early December date. The idea, an excellent one and advanced, I believe, by Warren Paul of Port Alberni, is to qualify two rinks out of the Totem for the PCCA final.

It is true that the Totem attracts quite a few rinks that would not be eligible, because of club or association affiliation or lack of same, for Consola playdowns but it is quite possible to set up rules to determine how two eligible rinks could qualify for the PCCA final.

This would do away with the argument about giving a second chance inasmuch as these two rinks would be the first to qualify for the PCCA final, where they would play against the six zone champions. And it would set up an eight-rink final, much preferable to the present six-rink set-up.

It would also add an early fillip to the excitement of Consola playdowns and almost certainly assure a regained popularity for the association bonselpiel. And to forestall an obvious question, the two rinks qualifying out of the bonselpiel would not take part in Consola playdowns, which usually start in late December or early January at the club level.

PROOF POSITIVE: Lyle Dagg proved more last week than that the best British Columbia curlers are on a par with any rock-toasters anywhere. He proved that he had somewhat unfairly been tagged as a skip who just couldn't win the "big one."

This, of course, is something that inevitably follows those who wind up as runners-up or close to it a few times in a row. Sometimes it goes deeper with the more unkind, quick to call "choke-up" anytime something is missed in the clutch.

It is no untruth to state that Dagg has often been discussed in this manner, more than most because of his reserved, sometimes almost coldly reserved attitude, on and off the ice. To be close to unapproachable, either by inclination or by a certain inability to unbend, is not conducive to popularity in the gregarious society that is curling.

That is all a thing of the past now. No longer can anyone honestly proclaim that Dagg hasn't got it when it counts. To get to the Canadian final, he had to pull off a big rally in his association final and come up with clutch shots in the provincial final.

In the Dominion playdown, Dagg probably won it in his first game when he made that fabulous rally against Alberta, winning 9-8, after starting the ninth end behind by 3-8 and with last rock against him.

But it is more than that, Ontario, North Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia all gave him tough games in which a miss at the wrong time could have been disastrous. Then the B.C. rink, facing a tough Manitoba rink which had won five straight, hit peak form for a 14-4 rout to again show real championship qualities.

That victory was followed by the letdown against Quebec which tied things up again. But, again, Dagg and his rink showed championship quality by bouncing back and routing the great Ernie Richardson, 8-3, with what was their best game. With the pressure mounting with every rock, Dagg almost blew it on the last end of his last game but he found the shots on an extra end to steal two points and clinch it.

Victory, of course, was by no means all Dagg's. He was supported by what was the steadiest cast in the Brier and, as he was quick to say, they made it easy for him. But easy is a relative word. There is no bigger curling pressure than to be fighting for the game's biggest honor and the fellow who throws the last two rocks could lose it even if he had machines throwing the first six.

Dagg, Leo Hebert, Fred Britton and Barry Naimark proved they can curl with the best and Dagg proved he had the stability to belong on the teetotal with the best.

Clay was angry at what he termed Patterson's attack on his religion, but also annoyed at the $750,000 guarantee, which he claimed was "not enough for such an international fight."

Meanwhile, Clay announced that he would take another U.S. Army selective service examination Friday in Louisville. He has already taken one such test, but rumor had it he had flunked the mental examination.

GARY PLAYER, who had lost seven consecutive golf playoffs, finally won one yesterday, shooting a one-under-par 71 to beat Arnold Palmer (72) and Miller Barber (74) for the Pensacola Open title and $4,000.

Clay's last round tied at 14-under-par 274. . . . Art Wall won the Puerto Rican Open on the fourth extra hole Sunday against Jay Delano. . . . Wilbur Webb and Richie Loo have won the two Victoria berths in the B.C. tenpin championships next weekend in Vancouver.

Webb captured the city title Sunday at Mayfair Lanes in the final game of the 24-game roll-off. He won by showing the most consistency in a game in which all three bowlers still in the running showed signs of buckling under the pressure.

Going into that final game, Loo had the lead by one pin over Derek Leonard and 15 over Webb. But Webb, who led after the afternoon shift, got those pins back by opening with a double and finishing with 186.

Meanwhile, Loo could do no better than 154, but held on to

Just One Hurdle To Junior Final

There is only one more hurdle between University of Victoria and a spot in the Canadian junior women's basketball final, but it is a formidable one.

The university team beat Metropolitan Rebels, 78-18, last night, giving them their total point city and Vancouver Island final by 88 points. Now they move into Vancouver Friday and Saturday for a total-point B.C. final against Mount Pleasant Legion, the defending Canadian champions.

Winner of that series will be host team for a series against the Ontario champions for the Canadian championship. B.C. and Ontario are the only provinces to enter Canadian playdowns.

Marilyn Rice scored 24 points for University last night and Sylvia Campbell added 17.

Scorers follow:

University of Victoria—Marilyn Rice 24, Sylvia Campbell 17, Martin Rice 24, Brian Chisholm 12, Neil Elliot, Diane Wilson, Chair Johnson 2, Sue Kelly 2, Gail Hunter 4, Marie Fehling 4, Total—78.

Metropolitan Rebels—Helen Panton 4, Cheri Hale 1, Louise Rine 4, Cheri Forrest 4, Hilary Bick 4, Pat Lebold, Donna McPherson, Total—18.

GREAT IDEA

To many, it sounds like a great idea. But Hardaker, writing in The Daily Express, said he was firmly opposed to any such "counsel of despair" that would close down a club simply because of breadline gates.

SOME WOULD FOLD

The super league would include only the top 20 teams from major population centres and, it is felt, would boost the quality of football — and the gate.

Of the other existing teams, some would continue in regional leagues with part-time players and others would die.

The new super teams would draw their supporters not only from their home city but from the whole surrounding district and could build modern playing grounds with comforts for spectators and facilities for other sports.

TOO TEMPTING

Even to the still-loyal fans, the comfort of a seat by the television may be too much to resist, especially since many stadiums are old, cold, damp and poorly equipped.

As the seemingly endless debate on how to save soccer continues, a scheme for a "Super League" has gained growing support in some quarters. But league secretary Alan Hardaker says the clubs themselves are against it.

He also backs the extension of the season by three weeks to prevent the clashing of important games and to leave teams free to pick up extra money in Continental games.

These ideas were presented to the clubs last year and still are under consideration. Mainly they disagree over details rather than the general principles, and a three-quarters majority vote is necessary for any change.

As for the super league, Hardaker says: "Eventually, in a super league, teams always playing each other, one or two clubs will become unsuccessful. What happens then?"

But whatever salvage operation is finally chosen, it will have to come soon. Of the more than 60 clubs operating at a loss, many still make up the balance through gifts from supporters' clubs, income from football pools or a windfall from the sale of players.

But many others simply operate in the red—and they can't keep it up much longer.

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — It is estimated that 62 of the 92 professional clubs in the Football League are paying out more in wages than they are taking in at the gate.

Thus has professional soccer in Britain fallen victim to the post-war revolution in sporting habits—the trend from "watching to doing" as more people desert the old team sports for sailing, tennis, camping and the like.

Instead, he proposed five divisions instead of the present four and each one streamlined to 20 clubs. And he urged four-up and four-down promotion relegation — the system under which top teams are promoted into a higher division and bottom teams are demoted. At present this annual replacement is limited to two clubs in each division.

He also backs the extension of the season by three weeks to prevent the clashing of important games and to leave teams free to pick up extra money in Continental games.

These ideas were presented to the clubs last year and still are under consideration. Mainly they disagree over details rather than the general principles, and a three-quarters majority vote is necessary for any change.

But whatever salvage operation is finally chosen, it will have to come soon. Of the more than 60 clubs operating at a loss, many still make up the balance through gifts from supporters' clubs, income from football pools or a windfall from the sale of players.

But many others simply operate in the red—and they can't keep it up much longer.

Super Soccer League 'Counsel of Despair'

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — It is estimated that 62 of the 92 professional clubs in the Football League are paying out more in wages than they are taking in at the gate.

Thus has professional soccer in Britain fallen victim to the post-war revolution in sporting habits—the trend from "watching to doing" as more people desert the old team sports for sailing, tennis, camping and the like.

Instead, he proposed five divisions instead of the present four and each one streamlined to 20 clubs. And he urged four-up and four-down promotion relegation — the system under which top teams are promoted into a higher division and bottom teams are demoted. At present this annual replacement is limited to two clubs in each division.

He also backs the extension of the season by three weeks to prevent the clashing of important games and to leave teams free to pick up extra money in Continental games.

These ideas were presented to the clubs last year and still are under consideration. Mainly they disagree over details rather than the general principles, and a three-quarters majority vote is necessary for any change.

As for the super league, Hardaker says: "Eventually, in a super league, teams always playing each other, one or two clubs will become unsuccessful. What happens then?"

Martin Rink Wins Bonspiel

Fiona Martin, who lost only her third game last season and salvaged the lone Victoria victory in the fourth event, went all the way in the 1964 ladies' bonspiel at the Victoria Curling Club.

With only one change in last year's combination of Beth Sealy, Renee Robbins and Sadie Campbell, Mary Porter taking over for Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. Martin won her fifth and sixth straight games Sunday to take the primary T. Eaton event.

She beat Gwen Sheeky of Vancouver, 12-3, in the semi-finals and then beat Vivian Chateaux of Vancouver Island, 12-9, in the final.

Marg Cooke of Vancouver won the Hudson's Bay event, winning five in a row after

Bouton Faces Holdup Fine

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — New York Yankees handed an ultimatum to holdout pitcher Jim Bouton Monday. He must agree to salary terms by midnight Wednesday or face a $100 fine for every day he is absent from camp.

Bouton, at his home in Ridgewood, N.Y., said: "I'll probably have to give in. But I'm going to check thoroughly first to see if I have any recourse. I think this is grossly unfair."

City Youths Clean Up

Victoria district links won both events in the Vancouver Island junior boys' high school curling championship, held at the Comox Valley Curling Club in Courtenay.

Jim Armstrong of Esquimalt Municipal Centre and his combination of Gordie Paterson, Brock Emberton and Dave Vyner won the championship by winning four straight games in the 16-rink knockout competition.

Mike Toller, Rick Gordon, Jim Almon and Parker Jefferson of Victoria Curling Club won the consolation event.

Koster and Harper Winners at Nanaimo

NANAIMO — Gene Koster of the host club and Glen Harper of Duncan just failed to make it a combined sweep of the 18th annual men's bonspiel at the Victoria Curling Club.

Koster emerged as the biggest winner, taking the Free Press and General Auto Sales events, the No. 2 primary and No. 1 secondary, respectively, and sharing the Grand Aggregate title with Harper.

Harper won the Sun Event, the No. 1 primary, but was beaten in the finals of Eaton event, the No. 2 secondary, by Dave Paterson and his provincial RCAF champions from Comox.

Koster and Harper both finished with 6-1 records in the two primaries and each of the eight curlers involved received their Grand Aggregate buttons. Earl Ewert of Vancouver, who won his first six games, was

Hawks Eye First Title

Leafs 'Pennant' Hopes Vanish

Toronto Maple Leafs were officially dethroned as National Hockey League champions on Sunday night when Kenny Wharram's second goal of the game and his 38th of the season gave Chicago Black Hawks a 4-3 victory.

With only six games left to play, Leafs are 13 points behind the Hawks, who suddenly find winless streak extended to four games in New York Sunday, when ex-teammate Jacques put on a superb display of puck-blocking in a scoreless tie. It was the second 0-0 game of the season but the first involving the Rangers in more than eight years.

It was Plante's third shutout of the season and about the only consolation for Canadiens was that Charlie Hodge, who leads the league with eight shutouts, is again solidly back in the Veolia Cup race.

Rangers, however, lost ground in their nearly hopeless effort to yet win the last playoff spot, Detroit Red Wings coming back after yielding the game's first three goals to whip Boston Bruins, 5-3.

Result left Wings 11 points ahead of Rangers, who have but six games left and are only a game away from elimination. It comeback, scoring three times, also moved the Detroit club Frank Mahovlich scored twice within two points of the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. Norm Ullman led the Detroit his 40th goal for the Hawks.

Prentice Returned As SPCA Chief

Capt. J. D. Prentice was re-elected as president of the Victoria branch, B.C. SPCA, at the annual general meeting.

Other officers elected were Michael Murriams-Harrison, A. E. Cunningham and W. Eland, vice-presidents; Gordon Jackson, treasurer; Miss Sybil McLean, secretary.

Committee members are Mrs. M. H. Aldersmith, Mrs. V. E. Crowe, Mrs. Nora Foster, Mrs. Harry Gregson, Mrs. J. D. Prentice, Mrs. J. S. R. Rigby.

Mrs. R. F. Snape, Miss N. Ferguson and Major Gerald Bullock, Rear Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, P. W. Belsen, Fenwick Lansdowne, Monte Roberts.

Members saw drawings of the proposed shelter for Burnside but high tenders forced members to accept only the first stage of construction, the cat and dog shelter and reception area. Puppy runs, isolation wards, fencing and landscaping will be done as funds are available.

Recent collapse of the septic tank plus heavy expenditure at the property on Wilton Street have forced the move, said secretary-manager David Beahling.

Cameron Webster, provincial president, was guest speaker. He reported on steps taken to have the Criminal Code amended, humane trapping, game preserves, medical research, juvenile trapping, and retriever trials.

Mr. Webster stressed the need for an increase of members in all branches so that the society can speak in a stronger voice.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and greatly relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months. This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator). Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

RICHARD RODRIGUES

Sailed to Port Angeles

Police Believe Boat Stolen by Fugitive

Police suspect a fugitive who escaped from the Wilkeson Road jail 11 days ago stole a 20-foot sloop from Harbor Marine early Saturday and sailed it through heavy seas to Port Angeles.

Richard Rodrigues, who was serving a term for burglary in the prison, escaped Feb. 28 with Frank Carlow, who gave himself up the following day.

SUSPECTS FUGITIVE
City police said they had no conclusive evidence that the boat was taken by Rodrigues, but Det. Sgt. William Andrews said he would be "very surprised" if Rodrigues wasn't the man.

The gaff-rigged sloop Tide Rip, owned by Howard Foley, 101 Island Highway, was taken from its mooring sometime between 8:30 p.m. Friday and 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

CLOTHING FOUND
Police also reported finding prison clothing, including a pair of blue jeans, stamped B.C. Gaol Service, a white shirt and grey socks, hidden under the west end of the Johnson Street bridge, just a few hundred feet south of where the boat was stolen.

The clothes have been sent to Vancouver for positive identification, but they are believed to have belonged to Rodrigues. The sloop was twice sighted on Saturday between Victoria and Port Angeles, but eluded the U.S. Coast Guard, which had been notified to intercept it.

Port Angeles residents who sighted the boat reported it looked to be in trouble Saturday afternoon as it neared the city, but it was found beached a mile east of town at about 6:20 p.m. Saturday.

RAN FROM BOAT

Port Angeles police told the Colonist last night a resident of the area saw a man run the boat aground, then run from it in the direction of Port Angeles. He was wearing a mocha-colored beret and a mackinaw coat. Washington police have been sent a picture and description of Rodrigues, who is believed to be heading for Seattle, where he has friends.

RECORD IN U.S.

Rodrigues has a criminal record in Washington, and was deported from Seattle to Vancouver to face the burglary charge for which he was serving his prison sentence at the Wilkeson Road jail. He had recently been transferred there from Okalla when he escaped.

Four Break-Ins

City Thieves Get $2,700 in Loot

Thieves struck four times in Victoria over the weekend, and netted more than $2,700 in stolen money and goods.

Biggest haul came from a safe at Simpson-Sears, 728 Yates, where thieves lowered themselves down a rope through a skylight and cracked a safe containing $1,561 in cash.

NAME GANG?

Police suspect the break-in was the work of the same gang that cracked the safe of Spencer's Stores, 1012 Government, overnight Friday, and stole $500.

Mrs. Robert Livingstone, an old-age pensioner who lives in an apartment above the store, said she heard noises in the building at about 3 a.m., but had no telephone and was too frightened to leave her apartment and call police.

HINGES POUNDED OFF

Police said in both the Spencer's safebreaking and the one at Simpson-Sears, the safe door had been removed by pounding off the hinges.

The thieves apparently climbed a fire escape to the roof of the building and got in through a skylight window above a section of the store concealed from the view of anyone passing on Yates Street.

When they finished the job they left by the front door of the building. The door was found unlocked by a patrol constable at 7:30 a.m. Sunday.

CABINETS PRIED OPEN

Thieves who pried open two filing cabinets at Tele-Tech Services, 1202 Wharf, over the weekend, escaped with $232 in cash and 300 radio tubes worth about $1,000.

The thieves entered by an unlocked rear window and used tools found in the store to force the cabinets.

HOME ROBBED

Robert Ross, 311 Quebec, told police a thief smashed the glass in a rear window of his home overnight Sunday and stole $39 in cash from a dresser drawer. Thieves got about $35 in change when they broke open three

Courtroom Parade

Suspect Ends Two-Year Jaunt

A two-year jaunt to Australia and New Zealand that began when a man jumped bail in Victoria and ended when he was deported from Australia, was described in city magistrate's court yesterday.

Emile Calve appeared in court charged with two counts of theft over $50 and one of failing to appear on bail. His bail had been set at $2,000 in city magistrate's court in 1961 when he was charged with theft by conversion. He was remanded for election, but never appeared.

He is alleged to have sold two items—a barbecue valued at $650 and a meat case valued at $1,300 in November of 1960—while employed by Berkel Products Co. Ltd., 776 Topaz, and kept the money from the sales.

Magistrate William Ostler asked Calve where he had been for the past two years.

"In Australia and New Zealand," the man answered.

DEPORTED

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett then explained that Calve had been deported from Australia and was arrested by Victoria detectives when his boat docked at Vancouver. Det. Richard Barry and Det. Walter Caldwell boarded the P & O Orient liner Orizaba when it arrived in Vancouver Friday, and arrested Calve aboard the ship.

SCHOOL DAMAGED

Vandals smashed 20 windows along the rear of Colquitz Junior High School over the weekend. Saanich police said yesterday. Large rocks were found strewn in classrooms on both the upper and lower storeys of the school.

By Vandals

The Red Cross is the greatest positive movement for peace in our time.

They were warned of his arrival by authorities in Australia.

Calve requested that he be remanded to obtain legal counsel, and his bail was set at $10,000.

Dedar Singh, Victoria, was given a suspended sentence in city court and placed on $250 bond to be of good behavior for a period of six months.

He was convicted of stealing a chair from the Ingraham Hotel beer parlor in February.

Lawrence L. Chisholm, 894 Brock, pleaded guilty in Esquimalt court on a charge of following too close and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

He was in collision with a car on Admirals Road Feb. 25, then left the scene. Police charged him the following day. Chisholm was remanded to March 16 for probation report and sentence.

Tom Jones Again Rejected

SASKATOON (CP)—The initial print of Tom Jones has been rejected by Saskatchewan movie censors, Joe Brown, manager of the Winnipeg branch of United Artists, said in an interview from Winnipeg Monday.

Mr. Brown said his firm will submit the widely-publicized motion picture to Saskatchewan censors at a later date. United Artists is the distributor of the movie to western Canada.

Alberta movie censors rejected the picture previously. Mr. Brown said only Saskatchewan and Alberta have turned it down. Tom Jones has been nominated for 10 Academy Awards, including best movie of the year.

Delicious and Early

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

In last Sunday's Colonist I broke the news of our first free seed offer of 1964—seeds of the new Starfire tomato—and I offered to send a packet of 20 or 25 of these precious seeds to any of my readers who would like to try them out. For your convenience, you'll find a free seed offer coupon at the foot of this column.

In looking over last Sunday's column, I see I did a lot of raving over the Starfire tomato but I didn't make it very clear just what's good about it. Actually, Starfire has so many virtues it is difficult to know just where to start.

One of Starfire's plus qualities is earliness, and this is just what the doctor ordered for Vancouver Island. Our climate is far from ideal for tomatoes, as we don't have the sizzling hot days and warm, windless nights ordinarily demanded by this tropical plant, and in our pleasantly cool summer weather, many tomato varieties simply produce vast quantities of green tomatoes which just sit there, making no effort at all to turn red.

Fortunately, the plant breeders always seem to come up with answers to problems like these. They have given us a number of early-ripening varieties such as Bounty, Hybrid Mustang, Early Charleston and that excellent English tomato, The Amateur. All of these perform well in our climate but it seems to me that in their development, a lot of the old-time rich tomato flavor has been lost.

Starfire represents an effort to bring back the meatiness and mouth-watering flavor of the old-time Beefsteak tomato, and at the same time retaining the early ripening of Bounty, Earlinorth and Mustang.

Seven experimental farms worked on this project, and the end result is a really beautiful tomato, ripening only three days later than the earliest kinds, and with a flavor old-timers may remember with nostalgia but one which the younger generation hereabouts has never savored.

When I say the fruits of Starfire are beautiful, I mean just that, both on the plant and sliced on a plate. They are smooth skinned, a bright orange red in color, averaging about seven ounces in weight and somewhat oval in shape, with a very small scar on the bottom. When sliced, the color is a striking shade of scarlet known as "signal" red. It is this brilliant coloring that gives rise to the name Starfire—the flash of a star on fire.

A slice from a Starfire tomato is almost solid flesh, meaty and appetizing, with few seeds and little of the watery pulp that ordinarily surrounds tomato seeds. This comparative lack of seeds is a highly desirable characteristic to the person who sits down to eat a plateful, but it poses something of a problem for the seed grower—I am told it is necessary to raise about a quarter of a ton of Starfires to get a pound of seed!

The seeds of this mouth-watering tomato are absolutely free—yours for the asking. All I ask is that you provide the stamped and self-addressed envelope to carry your packet of seeds back to you. Just drop me a line asking for them addressed to Garden Editor, The Daily Colonist, Victoria. Or, if you are not in the mood to write a letter, you may clip and mail the order form below—but don't forget that a.s.e.

In future columns I'll be giving some instructions for starting tomato seeds indoors, and I suggest you clip these and paste them in your garden scrapbook, for loose bits of paper have a habit of getting themselves mislaid.

JOHN CROSBY Watches Navy at Work

Parkinson's Law at Sea

ABOARD THE U.S.S. ENTERPRISE AT SEA—In Naples we got to NATO headquarters, which like most of Naples has that plaster, temporary look of a Hollywood stage set. It was built by Mussolini as a nursery to take care of the children of working mothers. Now it's awash with admirals.

One of them stood on the stage in front of a huge map of the Mediterranean, pointer in hand. In case he missed with the pointer another fellow stood there with another pointer at the ready. Great pointer country. "This will be a very brief briefing," said the admiral. "You want to know who we are and what we're for."

This was (I think I got this right) the headquarters of COMNAVFAC and also of COMNAVFACTS and also of COMNAVFACTS, all of which operate under CINCUSNAVEUR whose headquarters are in London. All straight on that?

CINCUSNAVEUR is in the same building with USCOMNAVEUR whose area of responsibility extends from the shores of Greenland some 8,000 miles through the Strait of Gibraltar to the Burmese border.

And don't forget MIDEASTFOR or CINCEMAFSA, whose headquarters are in Florida, although for single service matters COMDEASTFOR reports to CINCUSNAVEUR. Any questions?

The only question I could think of is why does the Navy have so many headquarters, but I didn't dare ask.

So here we are back aboard in this huge and marvelously efficient fighting machine. Welders, dentists, librarians. I thought the peacetime Navy was all movies and ice cream. It isn't. They all seem to be on 16-hour days.

Too much painting and chipping for the enlisted men. Much too much paper work for the officers. The Enterprise is Parkinson's law with computers added, which makes it worse.

They talk their own language. A lieutenant tells me to take a coat because "we're going to an outside surface." Means outside. Never use one word if two will suffice.

The Navy is very long on that word capability. "Nuclear weapon capability" means it carries the bomb. When they say "personal hygiene is required." It means go wash your face.

Everything's a "facility"—an air base, a men's room, a dock. I asked a guy what a hatch was for and he said, so help me, "To protect our water-tight integrity." Ask a silly question you get a silly answer.

"Survivability" is getting a great run in the nuclear age. "A living compartment" is what we used to call a room and "storage facility" used to be known as a locker. "If we overfly sufficient sea space, we must have rescue capability." Means that if you run out of gas you need life rafts.

At one point the captain was showing us how manoeuvrable this Big E was (it turns like a destroyer) and he said, "I want maximum acceleration." Used to be "full speed ahead." "Tactical configuration" means the plane's got a nice shape.

I was tremendously impressed with the skill and practiced ease of the flyers who can bring these hot airplanes in in pitch darkness at 180 miles an hour after roaming the Mediterranean at night.

And the vehicle, which they sometimes call the Enterprise, is certainly the best and most efficient in the world.

"But what's it for?" one of the correspondents asked, out of earshot of the admiral. "You and I know it's a toy. The Navy doesn't want to play with the old toys. They want nuclear powered toys. The Russians don't even have an aircraft carrier."

Another correspondent spoke up: "Well, look at it this way. Just the fact that we can spend half-a-billion dollars to build one of these toys will give pause to the Russians. They'll figure if we're that rich, we're too tough to tackle. That's the best kind of deterrent."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Self-Praise Pays Off

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Nick Adams spent $10,000 on advertisements in the trade papers reminding people how good he was in the Richard Chamberlain picture, Twilight of Honor. Result—he was nominated for an Oscar in the best supporting category. Question: Will he spend another $10,000 in hopes of winning the actual award? On the face of it, this seems a lot of money for a gold-plated statuette that cannot cost more than a few hundred dollars. But Nick is as shrewd as they come. It was certainly worth $10,000 to him for an Oscar nomination. It means he can ask more for his next picture. I don't think he has a chance of winning. There are too many other good supporting roles this year—namely, John Huston in The Cardinal, Melvyn Douglas in Hud, and Hugh Griffith in Tom Jones.

Walt Disney is searching all over for a movie property in which to co-star Katherine Hepburn and Hayley Mills. Hayley could learn a lot from Katie and vice versa.

Peter Sellers, who thinks nothing of flying to London from Hollywood to spend a weekend with his pretty bride, Britt Ekland, will also be flying to New York later this month for the premiere of his picture, The World of Henry Orient. I'm amazed Peter doesn't have his own plane.

Sam Bronston's Circus World and the Fall of the Roman Empire are racing through the cutting rooms in London. The Fall has to be ready for Easter showing. And that's going to take some doing. The two pictures add up to $27,000,000. Sam informed me. No wonder he will not be starting a new film until the summer. Twenty-seven million dollars! Before budgets got out of hand, you could have made 20 good films for this money. But don't get Sam wrong. He isn't scared. He's planning four more biggies.

Montgomery Clift is really worrying his friends.

Ingrid Bergman's husband Lars Schmidt owns the French rights to the play production of Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? I would like him to cast Ingrid in the role of the shrewish wife. She has always played such good women and this casting against type could be interesting.

Airport Mural 'Modernistic Blob'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The art trend in some of Canada's new airport terminals sends Harold Merilees into a rage.

Mr. Merilees, general manager of the Greater Vancouver Visitors and Convention Bureau and sworn enemy of the "modernistic blob," is so upset he is protesting the decor of Vancouver's new terminal before it is built.

"I don't want it messed up by a bunch of idiotic faces with stupid grins and goo-goo eyes."

Mr. Merilees says he became alarmed when he flew to Edmonton to address the Alberta Tourist Association and got his first glimpse at the Edmonton terminal.

"It was quite a shock. The decor doesn't tell you anything about Edmonton or Alberta. It is in the style of international meaningless. The master mural is just a modernistic blob."

Most painful, says Mr. Merilees, was a panel behind the Trans-Canada Air Lines ticket counter representing Vancouver—and consisting in his view of "caricatured faces with vacuous, silly expressions."

Mr. Merilees fired off a letter to the department of transport. In it, he said:

"While we realize everyone can quarrel with modern art I do hope from a standpoint of decor and color that the new Vancouver air terminal gets the kind of treatment it requires."

"We certainly hope that you do not forget the early Spanish and Indian cultures that have so definitely left their imprint on this part of Canada. . . . I must say that I took a very dim view indeed of the Edmonton panel allegedly symbolizing Vancouver. To refresh your memory it consisted of a group of caricatured faces with vacuous, silly expressions that would seem to indicate this part of the world was inhabited by a collection of idiots."

"I admit we have our share but I don't think they are in the majority."

Mr. Merilees says he feels the new Vancouver airport's art should be recognizable and distinctive, and truly illustrative of British Columbia.

"I detest the complete surrender to uniformity. When you've seen one of those blobs you have seen them all. I want something that tells you that you are in Vancouver—not in the middle of the Gobi Desert."

Beatles to Appear Larger Than Life

Priestman Heads New Group

At its first official meeting recently, the newly-formed Victoria branch of Oxfam—the Oxford Committee for Famine Relief—appointed John Priestman chairman.

Other elected officials were: N. H. Stephens, organizing secretary; E. W. Hall, treasurer. Date of the next general meeting was fixed for April 2, at the Friends' Meeting House, 1831 Fern, at 8 p.m.

In its first newsletter yesterday, the Oxfam branch announced that among its official patrons were: Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes, Dr. Brock Chisholm, Judge J. B. Clearihue, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, Bishop Remi De Roo, Archbishop H. E. Sexton, Miss S. E. Spencer and Malcolm G. Taylor.

Crash Victim Still 'Critical'

Car crash victim Larry Williams, 17, of 1912 Quadra, remained in critical condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital last night.

He was a passenger in a car that went out of control and slammed into a telephone pole on Maplewood Road, about 2 p.m. Feb. 28.

Britain's biggest-ever beat group, The Beatles, will appear larger-than-life in Victoria Saturday—on the nine foot by 12 foot closed circuit screen at Memorial Arena.

Already, said manager Jack Morgan yesterday, teen-agers were booking up the $2 seats in advance at a rapid pace. Door admission is $2.50, but the way things are going, he said, the show may well be booked out. There will be two shows: at 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.

TWO-HOUR SHOW

The two-hour show features the mop-haired Liverpool group singing their hit songs, "She Loves You," "All My Loving," "I Wanna Hold Your Hand" and many others which are currently being snatched up by record fans all over Canada and the U.S. Filmed in Washington, it will also feature close-up shots of the group: baby-faced Paul McCartney; John Lennon, the "sexy" Beatle; George "the quiet one" Harrison, and Ringo Starr, the comical Beatle drummer.

Also on the show will be American surfing music group The Beach Boys and girl-singer Lesley Gore, who recorded the hit song, "It's My Party."

Show in Victoria's first-ever taste of Beatlemania—on celluloid.

It is estimated that more than 100,000 women knit and sew for the Canadian Red Cross as members of the Women's Work Committee.

Saturday Flat Calm

Sunday Wind Saves Frostbite Racers

Normal bolsterous weather and three-quarter points of conditions prevailed only one of the two days in the running off of the Frostbite championships at Royal Victoria Yacht Club over the weekend. Saturday sailors had to contend with flat calm seas but things picked up on Sunday with heavy winds moving the sail boats along at a brisk lick.

YOUTH WINS

Davidson racing was won by 19-year-old Sid Halls who defeated senior member Ned Ashe by nine and one-half points, with Jim Davis running third.

In the Sabot competition the first five placed within two and three-quarter points of Robin Boyd, the winner. Separating her from second-placer Shirley Jefferson was a scant quarter of a point. Others in the first five were Harry Armstrong, third, Peter Young, fourth and Lyle Russell, fifth.

Retail Gasoline Price

Firms Want Control

IN A MAN'S WORLD

MARGUERITE...A FINE CIGAR

Recent actions by oil companies in B.C. show they want to control retail gasoline prices in B.C., a Victoria automobile dealer told the royal commission on gasoline price structure yesterday.

George Hankinson, president of Pacific Chrysler Dodge Limited, Victoria, said in a brief to the commission, now sitting in Victoria, that: "The oil companies must want price control at the retail level for this is the retail direction they themselves have taken recently."

DEALER GROUPS

Mr. Hankinson is active in automobile dealers' trade associations, but presented his brief as an individual.

But another brief, presented yesterday by the Vancouver Board of Trade, said that body is satisfied conditions of market price competition prevail within the gasoline industry.

And a brief by the British American Oil Company, released by the company yesterday and expected to be presented to the one-man commission — Judge Charles W. Morrow — today also says gasoline prices in B.C. are established by free competition to the benefit of consumers.

VARIOUS TYPES

In his brief, Mrs. Hankinson said the increasing use of various types of contracts between oil companies and service stations "has greatly increased the power of domination by the supplying refiner... over respective retail outlets..."

"The oil companies... being in almost complete control of individual service station merchandising policies lacked, until recently, the one final but necessary instrument for complete domination of the retail pricing process.

"The... consignment agreement by virtue of almost 100 per cent use in any given area, automatically gives the refiner this final complete retail price control."

The consignment system, under which the service station operator sells gasoline as an agent of the oil company, became general in the Victoria area in early 1963.

Mr. Hankinson's brief proposed legislation to eliminate all suppliers' financial or contractual interests in retail service stations and to prevent suppliers and retailers from entering into any such financial relations.

POST PRICES

It proposed that each refiner post wholesale gasoline prices which would apply to both retailers and commercial users of gasoline.

It also proposed a maximum markup for retailers, to protect the public in isolated areas with little retail competition, and a system of licensing wholesalers, refiners, bulk users, agricultural users and retailers.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Hankinson agreed with British-American Oil lawyer W. S. Owen that gasoline prices are lower now than they were a few years ago.

Mandy 'Just Sang'
—Turks Say Out

LONDON — Mandy Rice-Darling, 18-year-old blonde co-star in Britain's Profumo scandal last year, arrived here by air last night from Istanbul after being expelled from Turkey despite her parting plea that "I've given up being a call girl—all I did was sing."

Mandy, who was appearing in a night club there, departed from Istanbul with her fiance, Baron Pierre Caccia, after the Turkish government revoked her work permit because of immoral actions and improper language and gave her 24 hours to get out of the country.

The order was issued after a protest meeting of the Istanbul branch of the Turkish Women's Union. At Istanbul airport she told newsmen: "I don't understand why they are sending me away." Arriving here, she said: "I think it was the old spinster's association kicking up."

Big Facelift Planned

City North-South Routes Will Be Beautified

By JACK FREY

North-south routes through Victoria will be given a major face-lifting operation this year by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

At the northern end, the CIDC has already started gouging out asphalt from traffic islands in front of the Town and Country shopping centre on Douglas Street, where shrubs are to be planted.

An estimated $11,000 will be spent in this area, extending the

Douglas Street beautification project northwards to the railroad tracks.

Some $16,500 will be spent on the beautification of Humbler Green—the old fountain circle area where people protested against the city's attempt to landscape the islands with piles of rock.

The CIDC has earmarked $70,000 towards beautification of Victoria's new central square now under construction behind the old city hall building.

Tree planting down Douglas and Government Streets from Humbler Green to Flagstaff Street is expected to cost $17,000.

About $8,600 will be spent on installation of lights at the flower beds in Beacon Hill Park for nighttime illumination of the park, particularly during the summer months.

LAST WEEK

The CIDC's proposals for 1964 were approved last week by the provincial cabinet, although the commission's $200,000 budget is contained in the provincial secretary's estimates, which have yet to be approved by the legislature.

The Capital Improvement District Commission is a strange creature which has no counterpart anywhere else in British Columbia.

SOLE PURPOSE

The sole purpose for its existence, as described by an official of the department of municipal affairs, is "to put the frosting on the cake of public works carried out by municipal governments in Greater Victoria."

The 11-member commission is comprised of four deputy ministers by the government, and representatives from Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

PAST YEARS

In past years, the CIDC was the moving force behind such projects as the marine drive, improvements at Catle Point in Oak Bay, Kinsmen's Park in Esquimalt, Mt. Tolmie Park in Saanich and lighting in Beacon Hill Park.

It also purchased strips of land for "green belt" purposes along the Trans-Canada Highway beyond Thetis Lake, and participated in the controversial "Douglas Street beautification project."

Last year, the CIDC decided its efforts on two or three large projects, such as continuation of the marine drive around the Saanich Peninsula and major improvements of the causeway and Inner Harbor.

"I hope these will come to fruition, but because of their complexities it wasn't possible to get them organized this year," said J. Everett Brown, chairman of the CIDC.

Sacred Family Party

Discordant Note Sounded

A criticism of sales tax on restaurant meals proved the unwelcome visitor at the Victoria Social Credit constituency's gay family party last night.

The party spirit which showed itself in frequent applause for the speakers, the entertainers and the turkey dinner, was suddenly forgotten and a slightly startled "Ohs" were the reaction to Elmer McEwen's request to have the tax removed.

The speaker, owner of Scott's restaurant on Yates and a past president of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association, said he was "very discouraged" with the tax on meals and pointed out a man could buy $100 worth of groceries and pay no tax but when he made those groceries into meals, served them and washed up after them, he had to charge tax.

He said every organization that served meals was subject to the tax, even the one which served the meals to the Socreds that night.

(He added later the tax was not paid.)

Mr. McEwen noted most of the important guests, MLAs and the premier, had left before he started to speak and expressed disappointment a number of times Mr. Bennett wasn't there to hear his objections.

Mr. McEwen said the restaurant industry was the only group asked to pay a 70 per cent minimum wage increase at once and that two city restaurants were bankrupt and he warned that other bankruptcies would follow. The restaurants, he stressed, were the key to the tourist industry.

"It's grossly unfair," he said. "Tell your MLAs."

'Young' Premier Has a Ball At Sacred Do

By TED GASKELL

Premier Bennett had a good time last night.

He dined well, was entertained, he was referred to as a "young Sacred," he was given a chance to expound the virtues of Social Credit, he heard his government praised, and he left just two minutes before someone decided to find a little fault with B.C.'s government.

First obvious bit of pleasure at the Victoria Social Credit Constituency fund-raising dinner was when he invested 25 cents at the fish pond and presented Mrs. Bennett with a gaily-colored gravy boat.

He followed a member of the Young Social Credit League on the platform and was introduced as "another young Social Creditler" inadvertently.

He was called upon to shake hands—a sure smile-producer for a politician—with Mrs. Jane Hedley, 93 years old, of 424 Linden, who never misses a Social Credit meeting.

If he is like other husbands he was pleased and relieved to find it wasn't Mrs. Bennett who outbid W. N. Chant and Ralph Loffmark for the $37 picture of dogwoods which was auctioned off but was instead Mrs. Laura Newton, wife of the late MLA Orr Newton.

He discovered a 77-year-old member who had sold eight memberships.

He left just before Elmer McEwen stood up and complained about sales tax on meals.

Now what politician could ask for a better party than that?

New Bank Shares

No Place for Sharpies

Get-rich-quick promoters won't get the chance to buy cheap shares or take big options, then sell them at a large untaxable profit to the general public if the shares go up in value when B.C.'s bank is formed, Social Creditors were informed by an economics expert last night.

On the contrary, Ralph Loffmark, Social Credit MLA for Point Grey, said at the annual fund-raising dinner of the Victoria constituency Social Credit group, it's more than likely that the general public will be invited to be the first investors, not a lot of promoters.

PRIVATE MEMBER

Mr. Loffmark said he could not speak for the government but was simply speculating as a private member.

He pointed out that the government is not allowed to provide more than 25 per cent of the bank's capital and might provide considerably less.

He felt the government was

only backing the bank so that it could protect the people from the value of the shares being forced down or from some outsiders taking over.

Mr. Loffmark said that the

Langford-Colwood-Metchosin

Verbal Fight Fizzles New Area 'Studied'

By KEN JOHNSON

The fierce verbal battle anticipated last night at the Langford-Colwood-Metchosin area public meeting at Belmont High School fizzled out—but residents did decide to appoint a committee to chew over the possibility of local government.

There was obviously a kind of enthusiasm and certainly an uneasy atmosphere at the start as some 450 to 500 residents filed into the school hall to begin their debate on the pros and cons of turning the suburban rural area into a organized district or municipality.

There were bitter edges to the voices of some of the inquirers in the suburban game of scrabble that lasted more than three hours—but the object of their bitterness was somewhat vague. Many walked out of the meeting.

Panel Speakers

First, the panel speakers had their say, during which time the onlookers were fairly orderly. There were a few shouts of "speak up"—but chairman-teacher H. M. Palsen soon fixed that by handing around the microphone.

Sooke school trustee John Williams outlined the hows and whys and wherefores of his support of a local government plan—then answered a few questions.

Tax Question

"I didn't say there would be no tax increase if we organized the district," he told one man. "I said that if Langford was organized tomorrow and did no more than it had to there would be no increase in taxation."

"I saw taxes go up one area," said one man with a distinct southern drawl. "They went up 200 per cent when they organized one area down south. I'll say one thing about organization—I'm against it."

Garbage Valley

The audience applauded his statement. They also applauded a man who said his area around Happy Valley was becoming a "Garbage Valley" because of dumps near his home.

"A man who told the crowd, 'I'm from Metchosin... We're simple up there but we're happy,' got applause, too."

Esquimalt MLA, Herbert Bruch gave the assurance of provincial help if residents chose to form a local government.

Music Teachers Plan Meeting

During the convention sonata recitals will be given by violinist Elfreda Gleam and pianist Robert Rogers. The convention will include music interludes, panels, discussions and a tour of Government House.

Couple Killed Instantly In Malahat Car Crash

A young engaged couple was killed instantly when their borrowed car struck a rock face on the Malahat early Sunday.

ROCK FACE

The two were returning to Victoria after going for a drive following a party at Miss Nye's apartment. Police said the car struck a rock face on the east side of the road after the car went out of control, and the two were thrown out into a ditch.

The car then travelled a further 100 yards and then crashed into a rock wall on the opposite side of the highway on Tunnel Hill, just north of the entrance to Hall's Boat House.

NO WITNESSES

Colwood RCMP had to piece together the story from evidence at the accident, as there were no witnesses.

It is believed the bodies may have lain on the road for about 15 minutes before being discovered by two passing motorists.

On Saturday night the couple, who had been engaged since Christmas Eve, visited the home of a friend, had supper with him, then borrowed his car to drive to Miss Nye's apartment.

OTHER FRIENDS

Other friends joined them there, and they had a party. The couple left at 1:30 a.m. and went to home of Miss Nye's mother, Mrs. Ellen Courtepatte, 524 Springfield.

They left at about 2 a.m., and apparently went for a drive up the Malahat. They were returning at about 4:30 a.m. when the accident occurred.

HOME TOWN

O/S Morrison will be buried in his home town of Haney, and Miss Nye will be buried in Nanaimo.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said last night there will be no inquest.

Miss Nye was educated at Comox and Nanaimo and graduated from Victoria High School. She was employed as a doctor's receptionist.

ONLY CHILD

O/S Morrison was the only child of Mrs. E. Morrison of Haney. He joined the RCN in April, 1962, and worked in the underwater weapons section of HMCS Margaree.

Ralph Preston Shand of Vancouver died near Qualicum when he lost control of his car on the Island Highway late Saturday.

Qualicum RCMP said Shand was thrown from his car, which then flipped over and landed on top of him.

Shand, an employee of the attorney-general's department, was believed to be travelling north in connection with his correctional institute work.

Prospect Lake Issue

Well Water Best Residents Claim

A proposal for bringing municipal water to the Prospect Lake area involves some residents paying to get water that isn't as good as the water they have now in their own wells, a public meeting was told last night.

A plan, drawn up by Saanich municipal engineer Neville Life, for a local improvement to supply municipal water to the residents around contaminated Prospect Lake was discussed at a special public meeting of Saanich municipal council.

VOTE STUDIED

It was indicated Saanich council will now consider the best way of putting the proposal before the ratepayers who would be affected by it.

Several owners of property along Prospect Lake Road between West Saanich Road and the area of the lake itself said that property owners in that particular section will have no alternative but to oppose the proposal in its present form.

REQUIRED TO PAY

Since the proposed water main would run past their property they would be legally required to get their water from it and pay their share of the cost.

But several of them said their present water supply is not affected by the contamination of Prospect Lake and that they do not need municipal water, do not want it and cannot afford to pay for it.

One asked why water can not be brought to lake residents by a different and more-direct route.

CLEAR UP POLLUTION

Despite a plea by Reeve Stanley Murphy that the drinking water question not be confused with that of clearing lake pollution for recreational purposes, several people contended that if Saanich would clear up lake pollution the need for municipal drinking water would disappear.

Ratepayers were told the $230,000 proposal would have to be requested in a petition signed by at least two-thirds of those affected, representing more than half the total value of affected property.

The municipality would pay about $110,000 of the cost and affected ratepayers $120,000. Cost to the ratepayers for each lot would range between $35.63 and $55 a year for 20 years, although this might diminish somewhat if there is more subdivision.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I just caught up with some of your streamlined, 20th-century advice to "nosey landladies."

No wonder people like you. You conveniently look the other way while they raise hell. You call it "minding your own business."

I'm a landlady who doesn't stand for any kitchy-lookin' on my premises. I own two buildings and my caretakers have orders to tell me if any female tenant has male guests who leave after 1 a.m. Now you know very well, Ann Landers, that a single girl living alone who entertains men until dawn is not playing scrabble.

It's not enough that people pay their rent and not rip out the plumbing. I expect decent morals from my tenants and if they don't measure up they can live someplace else.—AUNT NETTIE FROM WILKES-BARRE.

Dear Aunt Nettie: Don't deceive yourself into believing your rules have saved even one maiden from taking the primrose path. If that's the way they want to travel, they'll travel it. And by the time a girl is old enough to rent her own apartment, she's decided.

Dear Ann Landers: I am so ashamed of my problem I can't ask questions of anyone who knows me.

I am 16, a junior in high school, get good grades, have lots of friends and am considered an extrovert. I go to bed every night at about 10 but I can't sleep because I'm afraid. Don't ask me what I'm afraid of—I don't know. Sometimes I'm afraid I'll get sick because I don't get enough sleep. Other times I'm afraid someone will get into my room and harm me. I always sleep with a stuffed dog so I will have something to cling to.

I baby-sit almost every Friday and Saturday night and am never afraid to anyone else's home. Do I have insomnia or a loose screw? Please help me.—WARREN, PA.

Dear Warren: The fear of sleeplessness can be more damaging than lack of sleep.

See your family doctor. He will explain that many people who fear they are not getting enough sleep, get more sleep than they think. He may also tell you to retire at 11 instead of 10, drink a glass of warm milk, take a warm bath, and read in bed for 15 minutes, etc.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the young mother who was being driven nuts by her four children could have been written by me.

I was in worse shape than she was. I lived with a haunting fear that I might go completely off my rocker and do something drastic. A friend suggested a solution. I believe it saved my sanity and maybe it will save hers, too.

a year and now I know I've made it.—S.B.

Dear S.B.: In the face of everything that's been said in behalf of togetherness, I'm delighted to print a word in support of "apartness." Thanks for writing.

Canadians To Host U.S. Festival

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa amateur ballet company, hoping to create interest in a ballet festival to be held during Canada's centennial year, is sponsoring a U.S.-Canadian ballet festival in 1965.

Mme. Nesta Toumine, director of the Ottawa classical ballet concert group, said that her company will be host to the annual ballet festival of the U.S. Northeast Regional Ballet Festival Association in May, 1965.

"Amateur ballet companies in Canada will be invited to take part in the 1965 festival as guests, and it is hoped that in 1967 Canada will again organize its own amateur ballet festival," she said.

Canadian festivals of ballet, including one at Ottawa in 1953, were begun in 1949, but discontinued in 1954 due to lack of interest.

Attention Secretaries!

Future Typewriters To Erase Mistakes

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Typewriters of the future will emancipate the nation's three million secretaries.

Research into the development of new typewriters aims to produce, for one, a machine with a built-in eraser key. Today's eraser will be obsolete.

One of the most intriguing research goals concerns the development of a machine that will type automatically at the sound of a voice.

There are many technical problems still to be overcome to make this a reality, but experts in the industry predict that the miracle machine will be produced in the not-too-distant future!

A score of engineers and technicians also are probing a photographic principle whereby a secretary can type with a beam of light trained on a negative.

NO CARBONS

The negative can be reproduced in endless quantities, thus eliminating the need for carbon copies.

The built-in eraser key and no-carbon copy machines, plus the one that types in response to the voice, are among the many basic research projects now under way by typewriter firms to ease the load of the secretary and her boss.

Though no firm surveyed expressed a yen to give away its plans, Fortune Peter Ryan, president of Royal McBee, gave some examples of how new scientific techniques are transforming the typewriter industry.

He said giant electronic brains are taking over many of the chores involved in designing new machines.

His company put such a computer to work on a new machine. The electronic wizard showed Royal engineers how to eliminate 1,100 parts in an electric typewriter. This is about one-third the number of parts in older machines.

The pay-off of this research: a full-sized electric typewriter that sells for about $100 less.

ENTIRE LINES

Another project in the works is a typewriter that will type entire lines at a time. Ryan said this will permit the typist to work faster as well as produce completely uniform margins as in printing.

Ryan said typewriters now are available in more than 100 different languages. Some of them, such as those with a French keyboard, require little adaptation from the English keyboard.

MISSION TO LEPELERS

Mission to Lepers will meet on March 13 at 2 p.m. in Central Baptist Church, Pandora Avenue. Mr. T. Westcott will be speaker.

The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint, dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. The page is framed by dark borders on the left and right sides, which appear to be the edges of the book's binding or the scanner's frame. There is no text or other markings on the page.

Plane Hits House, 28 Safe

CHICAGO (AP)—A chartered DC-3 airliner, trying to make a landing at O'Hare International airport in misty weather, crashed into a house late Sunday night, killing the co-pilot but the pilot and 28 passengers escaped.

The pilot, trapped with the co-pilot in the cockpit about two hours, was reported in critical condition in hospital. The passengers escaped serious injuries.

The two-engine plane crashed through utility lines and into a house in suburban Hoffman Estates. Six persons asleep on the second floor escaped injury. They were rescued by firemen.

The 23 men and five women passengers walked from the plane minutes after it plowed through the rear of the two-story home of Victor Golubad. There was no fire. The plane did not overturn but part of a wing was ripped off as it landed.

The pilot Virgil Pronovost, 40, of suburban Alsip, was rescued by firemen nearly two hours after the plane crashed shortly before midnight. A few minutes later firemen recovered the body of the co-pilot, Daniel Jordan, of Garry, Ind.

All Perish As Plane Blows Up

BOGOTA (AP)—All 25 passengers and three crew members were killed when a twin-engine Colombian airliner burst into flames in the air and crashed minutes before its scheduled landing here Sunday night.

Civil aeronautics chief James Bedoya Perdomo said it was possible the crash was caused by a bomb aboard the plane, a DC-3 of Taxader Lines. He said the pilot reported no emergency before he started to descend for a landing approach through smoky haze caused by forest fires in Bogota's suburbs.

B.C. Game Act Appeal

Indians Will Fight

NANAIMO—Indian tribes on Southern Vancouver Island will fight an expected government appeal against a recent judgment allowing Indians to fish and hunt outside the seasons set by the B.C. Game Act, Chief Douglas White of Nanaimo says.

Chief White said the Council of Allied Tribes of South Vancouver Island will start a campaign for funds to fight the appeal and he said he expects white men to donate money along with Indians.

"I think it is the duty of white people to help us prove in court that we have a right to hunt and fish anytime we want to," he said.

Last week Judge A. H. J. Swencisky allowed an appeal here by two Indians against a conviction in magistrate's court for shooting six deer out of season.

He ruled a proclamation in 1783 by King George III gave the Nanaimo Indians a right to hunt and fish for found the Indians had not surrendered their rights and food on uncoupled lands. He therefore were free from regulation under the Game Act.

He ruled the act was not ultra vires of the B.C. legislature.

Judge Swencisky said his decision should be contested in a higher court because of its importance. It could free many Canadian Indians from restrictions under game acts.

School Dramas Roll

By BERT BINNY

The 1964 parade of young dramatists started to roll last night with the first three performances in the 24th Greater Victoria schools drama festival.

Oak Bay Junior High School launched the evening's program and the whole festival in fine style.

GOOD-NATURED

Said adjudicator Jack McCreath: "They got the festival off on a light, nonsensical note with pleasant, good-natured fun."

The play Poison Party featured a suitably malevolent queen mother (Maureen Murphy), an unctuous cardinal (Barry Flatman), a really sycophantic M. de Beaujolais (Robert McDougall) and a raucous Denise (Joan Gray). Wake Golby as the king was very effective with his natural, unadorned style of playing.

BIT TOO EVEN

The play was well set and lit and had fine costumes. The pace was a bit too even, a factor to which the adjudicator drew attention.

Thornion Wilder's The Happy Journey, presented by St. Margaret's School, came next.

though capable, leaned towards caricaturing the parts and thus failed to "catch the play."

Last on the program came Michael, the festival entry from Norfolk House.

The script, actually an adaptation by Miles Malleon from a story by Tolstoy, was not good, observed the adjudicator. It lacked almost completely that quintessential ingredient of all plays—conflict.

Mr. McCreath praised the performance of Gina Bigelow as Matryona, the mother.

KNOWS VALUE

"She believed what she was doing," he said, "and she knows the value of a pause." Cecile Shaw as a Russian nobleman was also commended both for her voice and "authority."

The name part of Michael, played by Penny Sparks, was, in the adjudicator's opinion, both hard and unrewarding. From one side of the house, Michael was often quite invisible; more attention to sight-lines stage right would have corrected this fault.

CONTINUES

The festival continues today with two sessions. Brentwood Elementary School presents two plays and George Jay elementary one at the latter school at 2 p.m. Activities transfer to Belmont High School at 8 p.m. with presentations by Langford Elementary, Belmont Senior High and St. Michael's School.

Martin 'Deluding' Public On Chronic Care Plans

By TERRY HAMMOND

Health Minister Martin was accused yesterday of trying to delude the public into thinking the government had implemented a long-awaited chronic care program.

By a 23-to-16 vote, the government overruled a non-confidence motion which would have cut the minister's salary by $1.

NEGLECTING AGED

The motion was put before the House by Alex Macdonald (NDP, Vancouver East) who accused Mr. Martin of having neglected the old people of B.C. by failing to provide for real chronic care.

The minister, he charged, had first promised a program for the chronically-ill in 1956. "Eight years and 18 promises later we still have sweet nothing," he raged.

'ELECTION BAIT'

The chronic care promise had been nothing but "election bait," he quoted the health minister as saying again in 1960 that hos-

A Man Of Promise

Health Minister Eric Martin thought he'd found a convert among opposition ranks yesterday.

"I don't like to criticize this minister," said an apparently serious Alex Macdonald (NDP, Vancouver East).

The minister smiled.

"I used to think he was the most promising member of the cabinet, and I still do," Mr. Macdonald continued.

Mr. Martin's smile broadened. "He's promised Medicare and he's promised chronic care since 1956. Promises, promises, promises."

Mr. Martin's smile waned.

In his non-confidence motion he said he would only call for a $1 cut in the minister's salary (of $17,500 a year) because he didn't want to put him on welfare.

FIVE HOSPITALS

Mr. Martin replied there were five chronic care hospitals in the province, of which Victoria's Gorge Road Hospital was the best example.

Patients undergoing "reactivation" treatment there were covered by BCHIS just the same as acute care patients in general hospitals.

SMOKESCREEN

Liberal leader Perrault charged the reactivation program affected only 40 per cent of the chronically-ill in the province.

Randolph Harding (NDP, Kaslo-Slocan) accused the minister of spreading a smoke-screen.

In Victoria, he said, is a case of a 70-year-old woman who has to go out to work to earn the $245 a month needed to pay for chronic care for her husband in a private hospital.

Alan Macfarlane (Lib.-Oak Bay) said patients at Gorge Road are told after 30 days they will have to find accommodation elsewhere.

Noted Gardener Dies Here at 63

A familiar sight among the flowers, shrubs and lawns of the Legislative Buildings, head gardener Ernest Tidbury died suddenly yesterday at 63.

Mr. Tidbury came from a long line of gardeners. His grandfather was head gardener for Sir Walter Morrison of Basildon Park in England, and his father held the head gardener's post for Lord Percival, Bishop of Hereford, before leaving for Canada.

Born in Wimbledon, Mr. Tidbury arrived in Canada in 1911 and went into a greenhouse business with his father. He served in the First World War, returning to Victoria in 1918.

He spent some time on the riverboats at Skagway before returning to gardening for Capt. W. Robert Molson on Rookland.

He later spent two years gardening at the Empress before joining the staff at the Legislative Buildings.

Mr. Tidbury was described by grounds superintendent Len Butterworth last night as "a gardener of the old school, a good plantsman."

Tentative date for the funeral is Thursday. McCall Bros. are in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. T. H. Gilliland

Funeral service will be held in Chaplin's chapel at 1:30 p.m. today for Mrs. Theresa Helena Gilliland, 87, who died Saturday. Mrs. Gilliland, widow of William James Gilliland, had lived in Victoria for 55 years. She was a member of the Metropolitan United Church and a life member of the Women's Missionary Society.

Russia, China Decide To Fix Up Borders

NEW DELHI (AP)—Russia and Communist China have set up a joint commission to delimitate disputed sectors of their border, visiting Soviet leaders said Monday. The commission was established following Soviet protests to Peking about Chinese border violations.

Ottawa Determined About Labor Code

OTTAWA (CP)—After testing his ideas for a national labor code on provincial labor ministers, federal Labor Minister MacEachen said Monday he is "still determined" to proceed with legislation establishing a minimum wage, a normal work week, vacations with pay and statutory holidays in the federal field.

OPENING SESSION

The opening session of the federal-provincial labor ministers' conference showed general support for national labor standards but some differences emerged on how they should be introduced.

"There is an interest in the possible effect of a federal wage standard on provincial rates," said Mr. MacEachen. "This is a matter we discussed pretty carefully."

POSSIBLE EFFECTS

"I hope we were able to at least indicate our position as to some of the possible effects."

Although the government has not stated its specific labor standards, the Liberal party has promised in election campaigns to bring in a federal code providing a $1.25 minimum hourly wage, a 40-hour normal working week, two weeks vacation with pay after one year on a job, and seven statutory holidays.

These standards would apply to some 550,000 workers in industries within the federal labor jurisdiction—such as the railways, airlines, shipping, radio and TV stations, pipelines, banks and grain elevators.

Thant Pleads
For Peace

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Secretary-General U Thant appealed Monday night for an end of "senseless violence and bloodshed" on Cyprus.

The secretary-general sent cables to President Mararios and to the foreign minister of Greece and Turkey urging them to use all their influence to end the new outbreak of fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

His appeal came amid continuing negotiations here on raising a UN force to keep peace on the Mediterranean island.

Thant met with Turkish delegates following reports from Ankara that Turkey had turned down his choice for a political mediator to accompany the force—Guatemalan Jose Rolz-Bennett.

Deputy Premier Kemal Satir was quoted as saying Rolz-Bennett lacked the necessary international stature and knowledge of Cypriot affairs for the post.

GUNS SILENCED

Meanwhile, from Nicosia came word that a tenuous cease-fire had silenced the guns in flaming Kilma last night after Greek-Cypriots in day-long fighting claimed to have brought beleaguered Turkish-Cypriots there to the point of surrender.

Students Charged
In 'Regular Orgy'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Thirty-seven college students were charged Monday after what one policeman termed a "regular orgy" in a downtown Indianapolis hotel.

No pleas were entered as a battery of defence lawyers invaded municipal court along with the defendants. Dates set for the next court appearances were staggered through the next few weeks.

DANCE RAIDED

The defendants, 22 males and 15 females, were arrested early Sunday when police raided a fraternity dance at the Claypool Hotel and then rooms because of noisy conduct.

"What they had was a regular orgy," said Robert Gure, a vice squad patrolman. "We would have had to get a pickup truck to haul all the beer cans away."

CHASED CO-ED

The officer said one student, dressed only in shorts, was arrested as he chased a co-ed down a hallway, and several co-eds were dressed in negligees.

The charges included entering the bedroom of a member of the opposite sex, disorderly conduct, public indecency, underage drinking and larceny.

First Crucial Primary

A Day of Decision

By AP, UPI
CONCORD, N.H.—One of two of the Republican presidential candidates could be all but eliminated in today's New Hampshire primary, first of the crucial test votes leading up to the summer conventions.

Partisans of the four major candidates yesterday agreed:

● The already-slumping hand-wagon of right-wing Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater could stop if he doesn't come first.

● The write-in campaign for former vice-president Richard Nixon seems to be losing ground.

● New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller may have to drop out of the race if he doesn't finish at least a strong third.

● Only Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to Viet Nam and also a write-in candidate, has been gaining in recent days.

Rockefeller got a break Monday when one of New Hampshire's leading clergymen, Baptist Rev. William Goble of Manchester, said after a 45-minute meeting with Rocky "I am suspending my previous absolute stand against him . . . I may have been too hasty in making moral judgment."

A state-wide lottery referendum is expected to result in a large vote.

In Baltimore, Gov. George Wallace of Alabama announced he will run in the Maryland presidential primary May 19.

Rights Bill

South Wins Round

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern opponents won a first-round skirmish Monday when the Senate moved into the long-awaited battle over the U.S. administration's civil rights bill.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, urging senators to "seek the national good in its widest terms," moved formal consideration of the bill passed by the House of Representatives.

Senator Lister Hill (Dem., Ala.) led the southern speakers with the claim that the bill would mean federal control of "business, education, elections, tax monies, and nearly every other phase of national life."

The southerners successfully employed delaying tactics to prevent introduction of the motion to consider the bill at a time when it would not have been debatable.

REGINA (CP)—Three pints of the world's rarest known blood reached Regina Monday night as doctors battled to save the lives of a 31-year-old mother and her newborn son.

The blood arrived aboard an RCAF T-33 jet that bucked strong head winds in its flight to Regina after picking up the precious cargo from a CF-100 jet that carried it from Boston to Winnipeg.

MINUTES LATER

Minutes later the blood was used in transfusions given Mrs. Adam Kovatch, wife of a Regina carpenter, and her son, who had yet to be named.

Doctors said two pints of the blood were given the woman and one to the child, born by Caesarean section two hours before the arrival of the mercy flight in Regina.

THREE DONORS

It will be a day before doctors will know if the flight and the transfusions have been successful. If more blood is needed, three donors in Los Angeles will be asked to help through the American Red Cross.

The blood, known as VEL, was picked up from the Chelsea Naval Hospital at Boston. Mrs. Kovatch received two pints of blood typed O, RH positive VEL negative.

FACTOR MISSING

A doctor explained the situation was something like that which develops when an RH positive or RH negative factor is missing from the blood.

"The blood begins to produce antibodies which destroy red cells in the blood that contain the VEL factor," he said. The destruction of the cells which carry the body's oxygen supply would lead to death by anaemia.

QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE

"It is imperative that the child receives the transfusion as quickly as possible."

"It is possible that this is the first reported case of this type in the world. It is usually the mother, not the child, who requires a transfusion of this sort."

EARLY 1960

He added that the VEL factor in blood was discovered in the early 1950s and only one in 2,500 persons has a VEL negative blood.

Doctors discovered Mrs. Kovatch was in this group in 1961 when she gave birth to a child.

McNamara Misses Tragedy

Progress Seen in Viet Nam War Tour

HOA HAO (AP)—In a khaki uniform covered with dust, U.S. Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara toured South Viet Nam's Mekong River delta by helicopter Monday and said he saw progress being made.

But in this village 100 miles west of Saigon, tragedy struck his mission. A U.S. Army helicopter flying security cover in the Communist-infested flatlands lost power and crashed into a field. Two crew members were killed; the pilot and co-pilot survived. McNamara missed seeing the crash by minutes.

The crash marred what seemed an otherwise successful trip for McNamara, who came here for the second time since December on a mission to learn what is going wrong in South Viet Nam's war against the strengthened and aggressive force of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

With the South Vietnamese

penier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, at his side, McNamara spoke in three places to the people living in this troubled countryside. Each time he was cheered and greeted enthusiastically. He promised the United States would see the war through to victory for South Viet Nam and called on the people to give their full support to Khanh and what he is doing.

Later, riding with a reporter in a small three-wheeled vehicle, McNamara said he noted progress in the countryside since he visited in December. He praised Khanh's efforts to bring order out of the chaos in the South Vietnamese government since the overthrow and slaying of President Ngo Dinh Diem Nov. 1-2.

Victoria Budget

$1,000,000
SLASH DUE

By IAN STREET

Aldermen today face an uphill battle to reduce Victoria's civic budget to a manageable size, despite their first slashing session yesterday which saved $375,000 in departmental estimates.

The aldermen have set no formal objective, but Mayor R. B. Wilson noted it would require a reduction of $1,000,000 to bring the budget to within "three to four mills" of last year's tax rate of 55 mills.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Public works bore the brunt of yesterday's cutting by the finance committee and, from this same group of departmental estimates, the list of special expenditures for parks is expected to yield further substantial reductions when it comes up Wednesday.

Today's estimates, consisting of five department and various civic government votes, aren't expected to produce such heavy reductions.

At the start of yesterday's budget session the committee faced the task of cutting some $1,340,000 from civic departmental estimates to bring the budget to the 1963 total of $10,600,000.

This figure doesn't include certain health and welfare costs or the expected increase in school costs at the local level.

TOO EARLY

City manager Dennis Young said it was "too early to attempt to predict the mill rate" for 1964, but he added "the possibility of an increase in taxes is definitely present this year."

He suggested the individual committees concentrate on

NASSAU (CP) — Police said Monday a $100,000 diamond pendant, part of $500,000 in jewelry missing after a holdup Sunday, has been recovered.

It was found behind the rear seat of a taxi which was halted by four hooded bandits who then robbed three U.S. couples of the jewelry on a deserted street in this Bahaman capital.

Columbia Pact
Finally Sent To Special Unit

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons finally agreed Monday night, without a recorded vote, to send the Columbia River power and flood control agreement to the House external affairs committee.

The debate on this move had taken five sitting days. The House immediately shifted to the second-ranking item of government priority business—creation of a special Commons committee to study ways of speeding up its own business.

LAST WORDS

On the Columbia, External Affairs Minister Martin had the last words—nearly an hour of them—as he replied to the New Democrats' main critics of the treaty and subsequent protocol.

"This is the best deal which, after a period of protracted negotiation, we could arrive at with the United States," Mr. Martin said. He repeated that the original treaty negotiated in 1961 by the Conservatives was "basically good" but the protocol signed last January made it better.

Royal Navy Pawn in Election Battle

Home Uses 'Dirtiest Weapon'

By EDWIN BOTT

Colonist European Correspondent

LONDON—Launched sensationally in Washington, D.C., the non-existent Royal United Nations Navy has sailed into Britain's big election battle as one of the dirtiest weapons in British political history.

Although it does not exist, and was never intended to exist, it is immensely significant —because it shows exactly how Prime Minister Douglas-Home will fight to stay in power.

Behind it is Douglas-Home's anger because Labor party leader Wilson was received in Washington not merely as an opposition leader—but as the probable next prime minister.

By mentioning in America that the Royal Navy might help future U.N. police actions, Wilson made a political mis-almost the same as what Foreign Secretary Butler suggested in Geneva recently.

But Wilson should have known how easily this could be twisted into something extremely harmful to him and his party.

The Royal United Nations Navy was launched by the Washington correspondent of a big American news service. He reported: "Harold Wilson electrified Washington tonight with a proposal that, should a Labor government win the next British election, it would offer to turn the British navy over to the United Nations as the nucleus of a UN peace force."

This story reached Britain's morning newspapers shortly before 3 a.m. British time. Immediately afterward, the Washington correspondent of the biggest British news service got in touch with Wilson,

Big Facelift Planned

City North-South Routes Will Be Beautified

By JACK FRY

North-south routes through Victoria will be given a major face-lifting operation this year by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

At the northern end, the CIDC has already started gouging out asphalt from traffic islands in front of the Town and Country shopping centre on Douglas Street, where shrubs are to be planted.

An estimated $11,000 will be spent in this area, extending the

Douglas Street beautification project northwards to the railroad tracks.

Some $18,500 will be spent on the beautification of Humbler Green—the old fountain circle area where people protested against the city's attempt to landscape the islands with piles of rock.

The CIDC has earmarked $70,000 towards beautification of Victoria's new centennial square now under construction behind the old city hall building.

Tree planting down Douglas and Government Streets from Humbler Green to Fisgard Street is expected to cost $17,000.

About $8,000 will be spent on installation of lights at the flower beds in Beacon Hill Park, for nighttime illumination of the park, particularly during the summer months.

LAST WEEK
The CIDC's proposals for 1964 were approved last week by the provincial cabinet, although the commission's $289,000 budget is contained in the provincial secretary's estimates, which have yet to be approved by the legislature.

The Capital Improvement District Commission is a strange creature which has no counterpart anywhere else in British Columbia.

SOLE PURPOSE
The sole purpose for its existence, as described by an official of the department of municipal affairs, is "to put the frosting on the cake of public works carried out by municipal governments in Greater Victoria."

The 11-member commission is comprised of four deputy ministers, two members from the general public who are appointed by the government, and representatives from Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

PAST YEARS
Last year, the CIDC was the moving force behind such projects as the marine drive, improvements at Cattle Point in Oak Bay, Kinsmen's Park in Esquimalt, Mt. Tolmie Park in Saanich and lighting in Beacon Hill Park.

It also purchased strips of land for "green belt" purposes along the Trans-Canada Highway beyond Thetis Lake, and participated in the controversial "Douglas Street beautification project."

Last year, the CIDC decided it was time to concentrate its efforts on two or three large projects, such as continuation of the marine drive around the Saanich Peninsula and major improvements of the causeway and Inner Harbor.

"I hope these will come to fruition, but because of their complexities it wasn't possible to get them organized this year," said J. Everett Brown, chairman of the CIDC.

The motion was passed unanimously.

ASSIZES BEGIN
NANAIMO—The Spring Assizes began in Nanaimo courthouse Monday with a case of breaking and entering with intent to commit an indictable offence.

William Vercherre was called in at the last moment to defend Paul Benjamin West, who pleaded not guilty to breaking into the post office at Alert Bay.

Presiding judge is Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton of Victoria, and crown counsel is D. E. Williams of Duncan, assisted by Nanaimo lawyer Douglas Greer.

ALBERNI INCIDENT
ALBERNI—RCMP of Alberni detachment are looking for a car thief.

One member of the detachment has a special interest in the investigation. It was his private car, parked across the street from the police station, that was stolen.

The vehicle, a 1961 small foreign car, was taken between 9 p.m. and midnight Saturday and was found at 4:30 p.m. Sunday within four blocks of the RCMP headquarters on Elizabeth Street.

Const. Keith Doan said his car had not been damaged. Wires had been crossed to start the vehicle.

INDIAN SPORTS EVENT MAY BE DELAYED
DUNCAN—The date for the Corpus Christi Indian sports may be changed this year from May to the latter part of July or early August.

For the past 74 years the popular two-day event has been held on the second weekend of May. During the first day field sports are held followed by water sports at Quamichan Lake.

Spokesman for the Corpus Christi sports committee, Father Joseph Rosalter, said a final decision may be made within two weeks.

OTHER BANDS
He said other bands at Esquimalt and Saanich must also agree to guarantee the continuation of canoe races during the proposed summer months.

The canoe races during the two-day event are one of the main attractions of the year.

Father Rosalter said the change of the sports event from May to July has at least two advantages—better water conditions and a very great tourist attraction at the height of the season.

IN SPRING
In the past, he explained, the races had to be held in the spring as the Indians, following the event went to the States for strawberry picking and the hop harvest and did not return until late in the year.

Now the hops are harvested by machine, and the Indians return in June following the strawberry picking.

UPPER ISLAND
NANAIMO—A new member of Nanaimo's RCMP detachment has arrived—Brandy, the only one of his kind on Vancouver Island, 17 months old and, of course, a German Shepherd police dog.

Brandy came to Nanaimo with his trainer, Laurie Marshall, after a four-month training course in Ottawa. His full name is Deb Bill's Brandy and he is the only RCMP dog in the police service dog section on the island.

Brandy will be put in service to track lost persons and criminals.

HOME TOWN
O/S Morrison will be buried in his home town of Haney, and Miss Nye will be buried in Nanaimo.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said last night there will be no inquest.

Miss Nye was educated at Comox and Nanaimo and graduated from Victoria High School. She was employed as a doctor's receptionist.

ONLY CHILD
O/S Morrison was the only child of Mrs. E. Morrison of Haney. He joined the RCN in April, 1962, and worked in the underwater weapons section of HMCS Margaree.

Ralph Preston Shand of Vancouver died near Qualicum when he lost control of his car on the Island Highway late Saturday.

Qualicum RCMP said Shand was thrown from his car, which then flipped over and landed on top of him.

ALONE AT TIME
He was alone at the time of the accident, which was not discovered for some time. The scene was about five miles north of Qualicum.

Shand, an employee of the attorney-general's department, was believed to be travelling north in connection with his correctional institute work.

CRASH VICTIMS
Colwood RCMP had to piece together the story from evidence at the accident, as there were no witnesses.

It is believed the bodies may have lain on the road for about 15 minutes before being discovered by two passing motorists.

On Saturday night the couple, who had been engaged since Christmas Eve, visited the home of a friend, had supper with him, then borrowed his car to drive to Miss Nye's apartment.

OTHER FRIENDS
Other friends joined them there, and they had a party. The couple left at 1:30 a.m. and went to home of Miss Nye's mother, Mrs. Ellen Courtepatte, 524 Springfield.

They left at about 2 a.m., and apparently went for a drive up the Malahat. They were returning at about 4:30 a.m. when the accident occurred.

NO WITNESSES
Colwood RCMP had to piece together the story from evidence at the accident, as there were no witnesses.

Thant Pleads For Peace

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Secretary-General U Thant appealed Monday night for an end of "senseless violence and bloodshed" on Cyprus.

The secretary-general sent cables to President Mararios and to the foreign minister of Greece and Turkey urging them to use all their influence to end the new outbreak of fighting between Greek and Turkish-Cypriots.

NO PROGRESS

His appeal came amid continuing negotiations here on raising a UN force to keep peace on the Mediterranean island.

Thant met with Turkish delegates following reports from Ankara that Turkey had turned down his choice for a political mediator to accompany the force—Guatemalan Jose Rolz-Bennett.

Deputy Premier Kemal Satir was quoted as saying Rolz-Bennett lacked the necessary international stature and knowledge of Cypriot affairs for the post.

GUNS SILENCED

Meanwhile, from Nicosia came word that a tenuous cease-fire had silenced the guns in flaming Kitima last night after Greek-Cypriots in day-long fighting claimed to have brought beleaguered Turkish-Cypriots there to the point of surrender.

Other Cyprus developments:
● Gen. Carl Almqvist, Swedish chief of general staff, said in Helsinki Sweden does not have a battalion ready to join the UN peace-keeping force.

● Tass news agency announced in Moscow Andreas Arasouzos, acting foreign minister of Cyprus, conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, on "further developing relations between the U.S.S.R. and the Cyprus republic."

First Crucial Primary

A Day of Decision

By AP, UPI

CONCORD, N.H.—One or two of the Republican presidential candidates could be all but eliminated in today's New Hampshire primary, first of the crucial test votes leading up to the summer conventions.

Partisans of the four major candidates yesterday agreed:

● The already-slumping hand-wagon of right-wing Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater could stop if he doesn't come first.

● The write-in campaign for former vice-president Richard Nixon seems to be losing ground.

● New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller may have to drop out of the race if he doesn't finish at least a strong third.

● Only Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to Viet Nam and also a write-in candidate, has been gaining in recent days.

Rockefeller got a break Monday when one of New Hampshire's leading clergymen, Baptist Rev. William Goble of Manchester, said after a 45-minute meeting with Rocky "I am suspending my previous absolute stand against him . . . I may have been too hasty in making moral judgment."

A state-wide lottery referendum is expected to result in a large vote.

In Baltimore, Gov. George Wallace of Alabama announced he will run in the Maryland presidential primary May 19.

Students Charged In 'Regular Orgy'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Thirty-seven college students were charged Monday after what one policeman termed a "regular orgy" in a downtown Indianapolis hotel.

No pleas were entered as a battery of defence lawyers invaded municipal court along with the defendants. Dates set for the next court appearances were staggered through the next few weeks.

DANCE RAIDED

The defendants, 22 males and 15 females, were arrested early Sunday when police raided a fraternity dance at the Claypool Hotel and their rooms because of noisy conduct.

"What they had was a regular orgy," said Robert Gigue, a vice squad patrolman. "We would have had to get a pickup truck to haul all the beer cans away."

CHASED CO-ED

The officer said one student, dressed only in shorts, was arrested as he chased a co-ed down a hallway, and several co-eds were dressed in negligees.

The charges included entering the bedroom of a member of the opposite sex, disorderly conduct, public indecency, under-age drinking and larceny. The male students and their REGINA (CP)—Three pints of the world's rarest known blood reached Regina Monday night as doctors battled to save the lives of a 31-year-old mother and her newborn son.

The blood arrived aboard an RCAF T-33 jet that bucked strong head winds in its flight to Regina after picking up the precious cargo from a CF-100 jet that carried it from Boston to Winnipeg.

MINUTES LATER

Minutes later the blood was used in transfusions given Mrs. Adam Kovatch, wife of a Regina carpenter, and her son, who had yet to be named.

Doctors said two pints of the blood were given the woman and one to the child, born by Caesarean section two hours before the arrival of the mercy flight in Regina.

THREE DONORS

It will be a day before doctors will know if the flight and the transfusions have been successful. If more blood is needed, three donors in Los Angeles will be asked to help through the American Red Cross.

The blood, known as VEL, was picked up from the Chelsea Naval Hospital at Boston. Mrs. Kovatch received two pints of blood typed O, RH positive VEL negative.

FACTOR MISSING

A doctor explained the situation was something like that which develops when an RH positive or RH negative factor is missing from the blood.

"The blood begins to produce antibodies which destroy red cells in the blood that contain the VEL factor," he said. The destruction of the cells which carry the body's oxygen supply would lead to death by anaemia.

QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE

"It is imperative that the child receives the transfusion as quickly as possible."

"It is possible that this is the first reported case of this type in the world. It is usually the mother, not the child, who requires a transfusion of this sort."

EARLY 1960

He added that the VEL factor in blood was discovered in the early 1950s and only one in 2,500 persons has a VEL negative blood.

Doctors discovered Mrs. Kovatch was in this group in 1961 when she gave birth to a child.

Rights Bill

South Wins Round

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern opponents won a first-round skirmish Monday when the Senate moved into the long-awaited battle over the U.S. administration's civil rights bill.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, urging senators to "seek the national good in its noblest terms," moved formal consideration of the bill passed by the House of Representatives.

Senator Lister Hill (Dem. Ala.) led the southern speakers with the claim that the bill would mean federal control of "business, education, elections, tax monies, and nearly every other phase of national life."

The southerners successfully employed delaying tactics to prevent introduction of the motion to consider the bill at a time when it would not have been debatable.

McNamara Misses Tragedy

Progress Seen in Viet Nam War Tour

HOA HAO (AP)—In a khaki uniform covered with dust, U.S. Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara toured South Viet Nam's Mekong River delta by helicopter Monday and said he saw progress being made.

But in this village 100 miles west of Saigon, tragedy struck his mission. A U.S. Army helicopter flying security cover in the Communist-infested flatlands lost power and crashed into a field. Two crew members were killed; the pilot and co-pilot survived. McNamara missed seeing the crash by minutes.

The crash marred what seemed an otherwise successful trip for McNamara, who came here for the second time since December on a mission to learn what is going wrong in South Viet Nam's war against the strengthened and aggressive force of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

With the South Vietnamese

premier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, at his side, McNamara spoke in three places to the people living in this troubled countryside. Each time he was cheered and greeted enthusiastically. He promised the United States would see the war through to victory for South Viet Nam and called on the people to give their full support to Khanh and what he is doing.

Later, riding with a reporter in a small three-wheeled vehicle, McNamara said he noted progress in the countryside since he visited in December. He praised Khanh's efforts to bring order out of the chaos in the South Vietnamese government since the overthrow and slaying of President Ngo Dinh Diem Nov. 1-2.

$100,000 Left Behind In Half-Million Haul

NASSAU (CP) — Police said Monday a $100,000 diamond pendant, part of $500,000 in jewelry missing after a holdup Sunday, has been recovered.

It was found behind the rear seat of a taxi which was halted by four hooded bandits who then robbed three U.S. couples of the jewelry on a deserted street in this Bahaman capital.

Columbia Pact Finally Sent To Special Unit

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons 10 feet tall and Canadians are night, without a recorded vote, to send the Columbia River power and flood control agreement to the House external affairs committee.

The debate on this move had taken five sitting days. The House immediately shifted to the second-ranking item of government priority business—creation of a special Commons committee to study ways of speeding up its own business.

LAST WORDS

On the Columbia, External Affairs Minister Martin had the last words—nearly an hour of them—as he replied to the New Democrats, main critics of the treaty and subsequent protocol.

"This is the best deal which, after a period of protracted negotiation, we could arrive at with the United States," Mr. Martin said. He repeated that the original treaty negotiated in 1961 by the Conservatives was "basically good" but the protocol signed last January made it better.

MOVING AGAIN

The Liberal government's main accomplishment was in getting the project moving again, after it had been stalled for lack of federal-British Columbia agreement since 1961. It was "difficult to understand" why the former government had not obtained B.C. agreement.

Mr. Martin also defended Canadian government officials who were on the Canadian negotiating team.

He said H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West), who last week criticized these officials as not matching up to their American counterparts, would do well to "try to overcome the illusion that all Americans are

Royal Navy Pawn in Election Battle

Home Uses 'Dirtiest Weapon'

By EDWIN BOTE

LONDON—Launched sensationally in Washington, D.C., the non-existent Royal United Nations Navy has sailed into Britain's big election battle as one of the dirtiest weapons in British political history.

Although it does not exist, and was never intended to exist, it is immensely significant —because it shows exactly how Prime Minister Douglas-Home will fight to stay in power.

Behind it is Douglas-Home's anger because Labor party leader Wilson was received in Washington not merely as an opposition leader—but as the probable next prime minister.

By mentioning in America that the Royal Navy might help future UN police actions, Wilson made a political mistake. What Wilson said was almost the same as what Foreign Secretary Butler suggested in Geneva recently. But Wilson should have known how easily this could be twisted into something extremely harmful to him and his party.

The Royal United Nations Navy was launched by the Washington correspondent of a big American news service. He reported: "Harold Wilson electrified Washington tonight with a proposal that, should a Labor government win the next British election, it would offer to turn the British navy over to the United Nations as the nucleus of a UN peace force."

This story reached Britain's morning newspapers shortly before 3 a.m. British time. Immediately afterward, the Washington correspondent of the biggest British news service got in touch with Wilson.
